THE NEWS.

Particulars of the Death of Judge Jeremiah Black.

BOMBARDMENT OF HUE BY THE FRENCH.

More Yellow Fever Reported—Politics in Indiana—Death of an Old Soldier—Site for a Monument Selected.

[The wires to California went down yesterday at [illegible] o'clock, somewhere south of Roseburg, and no dispatches have been received since that hour. The nature of the trouble is unknown.]

President Green and Western Union Stock.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—President Norvin Green, who arrived yesterday, said at the Western Union office: Before the stock can be listed on the London stock exchange it is necessary that a certain amount of stock shall be held in Great Britain. There are [illegible] lots owned there, but not enough to warrant [illegible]. Amounts are held by other persons, but the stock stands in the name of bankers, [illegible] and brokers on his side. Gould would have liked to sell 25,000 shares, but he could not get the price he wanted, so the negotiations came to an end. The distrust of all American securities, except those of the government, had something to do with this, [illegible] to sell a large block of Western Union."

"Were you surprised at the results of the telegraph strike?" the reporter asked.

"The officers of the company had known for weeks what efforts were making to bring it about. I [illegible] thirty or forty men who could be sent over, but received word from his side that they were not needed."

More "Yellow Jack" Reported.

GALVESTON, Aug. 20.—A special dispatch to the News [illegible] that there are reports of yellow fever at [illegible], Key West and New Orleans. Governor Ireland, in order to be on the safe side, has issued instructions to the health officers to prevent the landing of vessels from suspected points. The [illegible] that no quarantine could stand twenty [illegible] condition, in which time he could get [illegible] information. The order will be rescinded [illegible].

Site for a Monument Selected.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Colonel Casey of the engineer corps and Secretary of State Davis went to Westmoreland county, Virginia, last week and visited Washington, [illegible] for the purpose of selecting a site for the monument authorized by an act of congress to be erected at the birthplace of George Washington. The site selected is about 500 feet from the house in which Washington was born.

Death of an Old Soldier.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 20.—General O. W. Brown[illegible], veteran of the Mexican war, and who, it is claimed, [illegible] Osceola in Florida, [illegible] was buried at Darby, a suburb of this city, to-day. He was born in 1817. [illegible] he had declined a commission and retirement pay. He had been a soldier in the regular army forty-eight years.

Will Aid the Strikers.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—At a meeting of the Central Labor Union to-day it was resolved to aid the striking operators still unemployed. There was no expression of the operators to-day up the Hudson. It [illegible] organized by the employes of the American Rapid Telegraph Company and the proceeds will be given to the female strikers who have failed to obtain employment.

Sunday Violators Encouraged.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 20.—The continuance of the cases involving the violation of the Sunday law before the court of criminal correction, during the past two weeks, seem to have increased the confidence of saloon and small shopkeepers. More beer and wine saloons and other small shops were according to [illegible] open to-night, kept open to-day.

Both Close Mouthed.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The British consul had a long consultation with Inspector Byrnes at police headquarters this morning. Neither the consul nor the inspector would state the nature of their interview.

The Weather at New York.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—The weather has again become sultry and hot. Yesterday there were several drenching showers, and lightning struck repeatedly in neighboring cities, but without damage.

JUDGE BLACK'S DEATH.

The Eminent Jurist Passes Peacefully Away at His Home in York, Pennsylvania.

YORK, Pa., Aug. 20.—Judge Jeremiah S. Black died at 2:10 o'clock this morning. Though not unexpected, his death was sudden and a shock to the community. On Saturday morning he seemed somewhat better, but the improvement was too slight to justify hopes of recovery. An unfavorable change set in about 4 P. M., and he gradually grew worse. He remained conscious almost to the end, and died peacefully. From the beginning of his illness Judge Black believed he never would recover, and was perfectly resigned. Mrs. Black, Lieut. Gov. Chauncey F. Black and wife, Henry Black, Mr. and Mrs. [illegible], A. B. Farquhar and Dr. Meisenhelder were present. Many telegrams of condolence have been received.

The funeral will take place on Tuesday at 5 P. M. The remains will be buried at Prospect Hill cemetery. Dr. Power of the Christian church at Washington will probably officiate at the funeral.

Shortly before Judge Black died, he said to his wife, "How can I fear to cross the river when my Mary waits for me on the other shore?" and added, "Would I were more comfortable about all I leave behind me unfinished in this world." He then breathed the following earnest prayer: "Oh, thou most beloved and merciful heavenly father, from whom I have my being and whom I have ever trusted, if it be thy will, grant that my suffering end, and that I be called home to thee. Oh, my God, bless and protect thee, my Mary."

The immediate cause of his death was [illegible] caused by the absorption of retained urinary [illegible] prior to the operation of Thursday. Dr. McKinnon of York, who had spent the day with the patient, noticed the appearance of unfavorable symptoms about 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Dr. Meisenhelder, who relieved McKinnon, also noticed the change for the worse, and from that hour increasing gravity of his symptoms indicated gradual failure of the vital forces. Judge Black suffered greatly during his illness, but his last moments were without acute pain. He passed quietly away [illegible] conscious until within a few minutes of his death.

CHINA.

BOMBARDMENT OF HUE BY THE FRENCH.

PARIS, Aug. 20.—It is affirmed that the bombardment of Hue by the French began Saturday. Admiral Peyron, minister of marine and of the colonies, has ordered six gun boats to be constructed for Tonquin. It is stated that France has informed the powers that any ships attempting to land arms in Annam will be liable to seizure. It is believed the warning is principally leveled at the large export [illegible] from American ports.

NEW YORK, Aug. 20.—A Herald editorial, expanding a special dispatch, says France seems determined to learn what China really intends to do about Annam. To-day, or southward from the scene of the recent discomfiture of her little [illegible] under Commander Riviere, she expects to bombard the Annamite capital. Her plan is quite startling, though not entirely original. It is to take the royal city, which to the natives seems part and parcel of royalty itself, and install a king after her own liking, leaving to China the difficult task of explaining that the new monarch does not reach the throne in the regular manner. The temporary success of this project seems assured in advance, as Hue is without strong defenses. How long the advantage may be maintained will depend on how long China chooses to wait before dropping her long but very heavy hand upon the same.

WASHINGTON TERRITORY.

Robbery by Indians.

SPOKANE FALLS, Aug. 20.—At 11 o'clock Saturday night four young men at the brick kiln near this city were stopped by three Indians who drew knives and demanded money. The only article of value among them was a silver watch, which was taken by the robbers. The plundered men notified the authorities of Spokane Falls, who accompanied them to the scene of the robbery, but the thieves could not be identified.

Later.—One Curly Jim, a friendly siwash, brought the watch and said it had been found by a papoose on the bank of the river. It is thought the highwaymen will be secured. This is the first robbery of the kind on record in this section.

CRIMINAL.

TWO SUICIDES.

WHITEHALL, N. Y., Aug. 20.—Dr. J. E. Campbell, a prominent physician of that town, committed suicide by taking chloroform, caused by drink; also at the same place, Wilder Hixford, a farmer in comfortable circumstances, shot himself in the right temple, the ball emerging from near the left ear. [illegible] still alive and at times conscious. No cause known.

STOLEN AND RECOVERED.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—Thirty stereotype plates of the catalogue of the surgeon general's office were stolen from the printing office last week, and found yesterday in some water.

CANADA.

AN OPERATOR SAVAGELY ASSAULTED.

MONTREAL, Aug. 20.—An operator in the Great Northwestern office named England, was attacked this morning on his way home by four strikers, who knocked him senseless, and then tried to strangle him, but were frightened off by the approach of policemen. England's wounds are dangerous, but it is thought he will recover. The assailants escaped.

NOTABLE DEAD.

AN ARCHBISHOP DEAD.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—Archbishop Roger Bede Vaughan, a Catholic of New South Wales, died suddenly at Liverpool yesterday, aged 49 years.

DEATH OF CONSUL SIKES.

LONDON, Aug. 20.—William Wirt Sikes, United States consul at Cardiff and husband of Olive Logan, died suddenly Saturday.

FIRES.

LARGE SAWMILL BURNED.

CHICAGO, Aug. 20.—Last night the sawmill of the [illegible] Lumber Company at Rock Island was burned. [illegible],000; insurance, $[illegible],000. Mr. Kraber broke [illegible] during the fire. He had the bones [illegible] set, returned and assisted in saving property.

[illegible] dyspepsia, blood, general debility [illegible] chronic diseases [illegible] are cured by Brown's Iron Bitters.

INDIANA POLITICS.

More of the Tilden and Hendricks Gossip—The Holman Boom.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The correspondent of the Chicago Inter-Ocean, in interviewing a prominent Indiana democrat on the political situation, asked: "Do you think the support the Louisville Courier-Journal is giving McDonald is earnest and sincere?"

"Most assuredly I do. I know it. Mr. Watterson's visit to New York was misunderstood by most people. I have good reason to believe that he foresaw that at some future time between that and the election of delegates to the national convention, there would be a cry for the old ticket. In my opinion, which is not mine alone, but is shared by most of McDonald's friends, Mr. Watterson's famous letter describing Mr. Tilden's health and physical condition was designed to provoke a discussion respecting the policy and probability of putting the old ticket in the field. The object was accomplished, and the result has convinced McDonald's friends that an attempt to nominate Tilden and Hendricks would not be formidable. An intimate friend of McDonald told me that there is a perfect understanding between Watterson and the ex-senator, and that the Indiana candidate is very hopeful."

THE HOLMAN BOOM.

Hon. A. M. Stockslager, member of congress from Indiana, is in the city for a few days, and was interviewed on the Holman boom. He said that many people of Indiana were speaking kind words of the "great objector," but that the democrats of the state were peculiarly of one mind on the candidate question, and that was that McDonald was the man. Mr. Stockslager warmly combats the prevailing opinion that Judge Holman is a narrow gauge of small calibre and mean instincts. Mr. Holman, he says, is one of the most generous of men—a man of wide learning and broad statesmanship. No person in public life has a clearer knowledge of public affairs, or a wider acquaintance with public men. He knows the present condition, not only of his own country, but of the nations of the old world as well, and upon all subjects relating to the minute details of government, he is a perfect encyclopedia of information. No man in congress, unless it be Sam Cox, is better read. His people had not thought of him in connection with the presidency until Dana began advertising him, but the idea is not distasteful to many of his friends."

THE BRITISH POST OFFICE.

Details of its Management and Revenue, London Standard.

The postmaster-general has issued the twenty-ninth annual report of the work of the post office. The contents are of a very varied character, dealing with the collection and delivery of letters, post cards, books, etc., the arrangement of post offices and letter-boxes, and the services in connection with the telegraph, the telephone, savings banks, annuities, and life insurance. The estimated number of letters delivered in the United Kingdom during the twelve months was 1,280,636,200, showing an increase of 4.2 per cent.; the number of post cards, 144,036,200, an increase of 6.4 per cent; the number of book packets and circulars, 289,906,400, an increase of 6.3 per cent, and the number of newspapers, 144,582,600, being slightly less than last year. The decrease in newspapers may be attributable to increased facilities offered by railway companies for sending newspapers as parcels. The number of registered letters was 11,264,325, being an increase of 3.3 per cent. The number of postoffices has been increased by 468, making a total of 15,404 in the United Kingdom, of which 920 are head offices. Seven hundred and seventy letter boxes have been added, making the total number of receptacles of all sorts for letters about 30,100. The number of established officers of the department—that is, persons holding permanent situations—is about 44,601. Of these 3,561 are females. The number of letters received in the returned letter offices was 5,851,443; an increase of 196,553; of post cards, 506,514, an increase of 37,205; of book packets, 4,986,290, an increase of 187,890, and of newspapers, 477,278, an increase of 38,184. The increase in returned letters is about proportionate to the increase in correspondence. Of the letters 562,294 were unreturnable; 26,298 bore no address, and of this number 1,604 contained cash and checks, etc., amounting to £6,016, the whole of which, with the exception of about £130, has already been returned to the senders. The total number of letters and packets containing value showed an increase of 12,000. Notwithstanding repeated warnings to the public, nearly 30,000 articles were received loose and coverless, owing to the weak and flimsy nature of the wrappers used and the insecure mode of packing.

The health of the officers in London has been satisfactory, and the principal medical officer reports that the death rate was only 5.1 per 1,000, as compared with 14.7 per 1,000 shown in the mortality records for persons of the same average age. A female medical officer was appointed for the first time during the year to take medical charge of the large female staff employed at the general postoffice in London.

The Postmaster General reports favorably of the progress of the savings banks. The amount due to depositors at the close of the year was upward of £39,000,000. The number of telegraph messages was 32,092,026, being an increase of 744,165 only as compared with 1,983,879 in 1881-2. This diminution in the rate of increase is partly to be accounted for by the fact that two Easters, involving four holidays, occurred in the financial year. The postal order returns show a large increase. About £3,451,000, as compared with £2,000,000 in 1881-2, were transmitted by means of these orders within the year, and no less than 7,000,323 orders were issued. The 1s. 6d., 10s., and 20s. orders continue to be most in request.

The gross revenue of the postoffice for the year was £9,413,512. The expenditure was £5,352,064, the net revenue thus being £3,061,448, being a decrease of £38,727 on the previous year. Commenting on this, Mr. Fawcett says: "It will be observed that the increase of expenditure during the year was again large. Much of this increase was due to the development of business, but there were also special items of outlay, already referred to; for instance, £53,000 for the improvement of the letter carriers' position, £64,000 for the remuneration of sub-postmasters, £87,000 for improved telegraphic communication with Ireland, and £13,000 for a cable depot." In concluding the report the postmaster general expresses his regret at the loss which the department has sustained during the year by the deaths of Mr. George Chetwynd, C. B., receiver and accountant general; Mr. T. G. Ramsay, controller of the savings bank department, and Dr. Waller Lewis, the chief medical officer. Mr. Chetwynd's career extended over 40 years.

AWAKE AT LAST.

The Connecticut Man Who Has Slept Since Christmas.

In December last two days before Christmas Sherman W. Platt, residing with his father, a well-to-do farmer of Morgan's Four Corners, town of Newton, twenty-three miles distant from Bridgeport, Conn., fell asleep after retiring early, as was his habit. Had he awakened with next morning's sun, as people generally do, the circumstance would have attracted no attention, but he did not. Continuing in sound repose, his parents, and afterward his friends and neighbors, became alarmed at the long slumbering, and began studying as to what induced it. The case was put into the care of the best physicians, but the wisest of them, after diagnosis, could give no intelligent solution. Mr. Platt lay in his bed motionless, suffering no pain, and exempt, seemingly, from those calls which thirst and hunger make. Early in July, 1882, Mr. Platt, who is 35 years old and unmarried, was at work in a hay field. The sun beat down with force, affecting his head, and he reclined at noon under a tree on a pile of hay, thinking after a short nap to feel better. On rising from the hay he complained of a strange feeling in the back of his head, and he was assisted to the house and restoratives applied. Nothing availed to alleviate. In the autumn he had been attacked with malarial fever, and it is believed the two causes combined tended to bring about his comatose condition and render him the most protracted sleeper of modern times. From Christmas till March he scarcely moved in bed, and took no nourishment save what was forced into his mouth. With lengthening days he exhibited signs of returning animation, but not till the arrival of May did he move from his recumbent position, utter an intelligent syllable, or open his eyes. Presently, however, he submitted to be bolstered up in bed, and finally, like an infant, was put into his clothes and led to a chair. He could not be induced to speak, and the muscular effort, if such it may be called, required for him to pass from the bed to the chair was invariably followed by deep sleep. In June hunger asserted itself, and during his brief wakeful moments he daily found his way, unassisted, to the pantry to appease the same, his eyes all the while closed, and returning to his chair, resumed the sleep which his friends were impelled to feel would never know waking. Thus he continued till July 10 when, to the surprise of his family, he strode to the front veranda. Seated in a rustic chair he heard a passing teamster address his cattle and, as if in mimicry, sang out "Whoa!" the first exclamation he had made during 213 days.

On Monday night last week he went to his room as usual. During the night he left it stealthily, and, clad in his thin garments, slippers, an apology for a hat and no money, started to walk to this city. He must have reached Hawleyville before midnight, otherwise the depot watchman there would have seen him, and following the tracks of the Housatonic railroad reached here Tuesday morning. Among the crowds at the station in this city he did not attract attention at first, but after awhile George Arnold, of the police force, saw his actions, and, convinced that there was something wrong, took him into custody. The description of Sherman W. Platt and the story of his long sleep were familiar to the officer, and he set about the task of identification. Mr. Arnold called in ex-Mayor Daniel N. Morgan, who formerly lived in Newtown, and one glance from that gentleman sufficed. It was indeed Mr. Platt. At the office of Chief Marsh various expedients were adopted to extort words from Mr. Platt. He danced, walked, and smoked a pipe when asked to do so, but exhibited no inclination or desire to speak, and, it is asserted, did not utter a word while in Bridgeport. Mr. Walter Platt, his father, was notified, and he conveyed the hero of the longest nap ever heard of by railroad train to his home.

SPAIN.

STATE OF SIEGE CONTINUED.

MADRID, Aug. 20.—The ministers have decided to continue the state of siege and suspension of guarantees until the king returns to Madrid.

AUSTRIA.

IN A HOPELESS CONDITION.

VIENNA, Aug. 20.—Countess de Chambord has informed Emperor Francis Joseph that the count is in an almost hopeless condition.

Movement of the President's Party.

CAMP ROBERT LINCOLN, W. T., via Fort Washakie, W. T., Aug. 16.—The president's party followed the tortuous windings of Wind river nearly to its source, and then continued the ascent of Robert Lincoln pass, used by Lieutenant General Sheridan last year and named in honor of the secretary of war. The pass is the shortest and easiest of the routes between the valley of the Wind river and the valley of the Snake river. The party reached camp at 11 o'clock, having traveled about seventeen miles. The camp is named Robert Lincoln, and is situated on the crest of the backbone of the Rival mountains; altitude 9000 feet above the level of the sea. Within a hundred yards of the camp are streams which flow respectively into the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. The president spent part of yesterday trout fishing and returned to camp with the heaviest catch of the party; the average weight of the trout being two pounds. Surgeon Norwood returned to camp, having shot an elk of enormous size and weight. The other hunters of the party brought in two antelopes and a good supply of mountain grouse and wild ducks. To-morrow morning the party commence the descent of Lincoln pass. Will camp in the valley of the Grosventre river, where the first view of Grand Teton mountains will be obtained. The president and all the rest of the party are in excellent health and spirits. Game abounds, but General Sheridan has given peremptory orders that no more shall be killed than is absolutely necessary for the wants of the command.

Strikers Returned to Work.

BETHLEHEM, Pa., Aug. 16.—The labor difficulty at the Bethlehem iron works came to an abrupt termination yesterday. The Andrew Lee branch of the Amalgamated Iron and Steel workers having collapsed, the president of the local branch visited Philadelphia yesterday to have some of the promises of financial aid made by Jarrett fulfilled but receiving no assurance that the substantial relief would be afforded, he returned home last night. This morning the members decided almost unanimously to disband and ask the company to reinstate them. A committee, of which the president of the society was spokesman, conferred with Superintendent Fritz. The committee was informed that the company would give employment to worthy men who had gone out, but no assurance was given that all the former employes would be taken back. The delegates who attended the convention in Philadelphia returned last night.

Pacific Coast Petroleum.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—A Times special from Bradford, Pa., says: A well known Pennsylvania oil operator, recently returned from the petroleum districts of the Pacific coast, gives a glowing account of the nature and profits of the operations there. He says the finding of oil in the California districts is as certain as it was in the Bradford field. The drill always finds deposits, and no failure—at least in three of the districts—has yet resulted. It costs $7000 to put down a California oil well after the tools are on the ground, or twice as much as a Pennsylvania well, but after it is down and flowing or pumping, the California well is a much more valuable piece of property than the other.

Struck Oil.

DENVER, Aug. 16.—For three years or more capitalists here have prospected for coal oil in the vicinity of Canyon City in this state, but with indifferent results until last night when a vein was struck in the Land Investment Company's well, which has since yielded at the rate of forty barrels per day and of excellent quality, demonstrating to a certainty that coal oil exists in paying quantities in that vicinity.

Too Long Delayed.

LYNCHBURG, Va., Aug. 15.—The first rain in five weeks fell to-day. The drought in southwestern Virginia has caused the destruction of the corn crop in several counties and irreparable injury to tobacco in others. It is thought the rain has come too late to mend matters.

Hanlan Wins.

WATKINS, N. Y., Aug. 15.—Hanlan won the professional race this afternoon, three miles with a turn, in 2[illegible]:19, three lengths ahead, Hosmer 2d, Wallace Ross a good 3d, Lee out.

THE SAN RAFAEL MURDER.

Valencia on Trial for Killing Young McGreevy—The Testimony.

SAN RAFAEL, Aug 16.—The taking of testimony in the trial of Valencia, for the murder of McGreevy, commenced to-day. The first witness was Kitty Millar, one of McGreevy's companions in the fatal ride. She testified that she, McGreevy, Alice McCarthy and Frank Feeney took a buggy near the Fairfax picnic grounds, on April 15, intending to take a little ride; when not far from San Rafael a team overtook them containing Valencia and one James Byrne; Valencia jumped out and caught the horse they were driving by the head, saying that it was his and asking them how they dared to take it; they said that they were just having a ride and proceeded to get out. All had dismounted except Miss McCarthy, and McGreevy was just in the act of assisting her to get out, when Valencia, who was on the opposite side of the buggy, drew a pistol and fired. McGreevy cried, "Oh, mother," and fell between the wheels. Valencia then jumped into the buggy, drove it over McGreevy's head and went on to San Rafael. The witness was subjected to a rigid cross-examination by the defense, but nothing further was elicited.

Alice McCarthy, another of the occupants of the buggy, testified corroborating the testimony of Miss Millar. The witness on cross-examination was asked as to whether she had ever been confined in the industrial school or Magdalen asylum. She declined to answer the question at first, but subsequently stated that she had not been in the Magdalen asylum, but had been in the industrial school.

Frank Feeney, the other member of the party, testified in corroboration.

Frank Byrne, who drove Valencia after the party, testified that he had given the defendant the pistol with which the shooting was done at his request. He did not see the actual shooting, as he was turning the buggy when it took place.

W. S. Wood, a San Francisco attorney, testified generally corroborating the previous evidence. The other witnesses for the prosecution were Dr. Falliferre and Coroner Eden. The defense will open early to-morrow.

Last evening as David McClure, G. Pacheco and Frank Valencia, the latter the defendant in the above case, were seated at dinner in the [illegible] house, a rifle bullet passed through the partition and lodged in the wall near the party, narrowly missing them. The occurrence created a lively sensation, but investigation proved that it was the result of pure accident.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

No More Money Required for Construction Purposes—A Hopeful Outlook.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug 16.—The Press' New York special gives a column interview with Vice President Oakes of the Northern Pacific, who said: "I can state that all of the enterprises under control of either the Northern Pacific or Oregon Transcontinental are now so far advanced that, at the expiration of sixty or ninety days, no more money will be required for construction purposes. The earnings for August will be at the rate of $9,000,000 per annum, or $900,000 for October; $1,300,000 of these earnings is increased earnings from construction, which for the last fiscal year were 10 per cent. of the gross amount reported."

FOREIGN NOTES.

A THREAT BY PARNELL.

LONDON, Aug. 16.—In the commons, during the debate on the bill for the expenses of the land commission, Parnell declared that unless the deficiencies in the land act were speedily remedied he would lead a deeper and more desperate agitation than any yet witnessed. The act had been applied with slowness and inefficiency—very different from the way in which the coercion act had been applied.

THE FRENCH IN TONQUIN.

PARIS, Aug. 16.—Admiral Courbet, commander of the French squadron, has already begun operations against Hue by blockading Journanean, at the mouth of the river, three leagues distant. He will land a force there to co-operate with the gunboats. Hue probably will be evacuated about the 20th.

CETEWAYO'S FORCES VICTORIOUS.

DURBAN, Aug. 16.—There has been a two-days' battle between the followers of Cetewayo and those of Usibepu, with great slaughter on both sides. Usibepu is said to have been defeated and fled.

ARIZONA.

Arrest of the Globe Stage Robbers.

TUCSON, A. T., Aug. 16.—Sheriff Paul received a telegram this morning stating that Len Redfield and Joe Tuttle had been arrested on the San Pedro river as accomplices in the recent Globe stage robbery. They were taken to Florence. The robbers themselves are well known. Among them is a desperado named Jack, who lounged about Florence several days. He went out on the stage that was robbed, that being the signal to his accomplices that the expected money was aboard. The stage passed the robbers a short distance from Riverside and stopped at Riverside to change horses. The robbers then passed on about two miles in advance and lay in ambush, and when the stage came along opened fire from both sides of the road. Red Jack got off at Riverside, hired a horse and joined the robbers on the road to Russellville, where all are thought to belong. At last accounts the officers were only six hours behind them. In the broken Wells-Fargo box the robbers overlooked $300 in greenbacks.

NEVADA.

A Fatal Cave.

EUREKA, Aug. 1[illegible].—A serious accident occurred in the tunnel being excavated near Table Bluff, in this county, by the Humboldt and Eel River Railroad Company. At 8 o'clock yesterday morning a cave occurred, burying a man named Blackburn, one of the contractors, to his breast in sand. While the workmen were endeavoring to extricate him a second cave occurred, which buried Blackburn under a hundred tons of earth and dislocated the left shoulder of Joseph West, a laborer. Blackburn's body was recovered half an hour later. The deceased was a native of Nova Scotia, aged 41 years, and leaves a widow. The injuries of West are not fatal.

It is observed as a feature of the census that the number of people whose ages are represented by even tens is greatly in excess of the number represented as of other ages. The number who are of ages that are multiples of five is also large by comparison, and there are more people whose ages appear as even numbers than odd.

EARLY POSTAL RATES.

An Interesting Review of the Changes Made and Reductions Effected.

In connection with the advent of the new postage rate to go into effect October 1, the following history will be of interest: The postoffice department of the United States government was organized in 1780 on a model of the like department in the colonial government. The first schedule of rates, which was established by the law that organized the postoffice, was as follows: For every letter consisting of one piece of paper for any distance not exceeding 40 miles, 8 cents; for any distance not exceeding 90 miles, 10 cents; not exceeding 150 miles, 12½ cents; not exceeding 300 miles, 17 cents; not exceeding 500 miles, 20 cents; any distance over 500 miles, 25 cents. These rates were held in force until 1816, when they were changed without changing the awkward unit of mail matter. The rate that went into effect in 1816 was established after a strong demand by the people for reduction. It made the charge for a single letter carried not to exceed 30 miles, 6¼ cents; not to exceed 80 miles, 10 cents; not to exceed 150 miles, 12½ cents; not to exceed 400 miles, 18¾ cents; and for any distance over 400 miles, 25 cents. The unit of charge was one sheet or piece of paper. There were no envelopes at that time. A letter was so written on a sheet of paper that one side of one part of it was left blank. When folded this blank side became the back of the letter on which the address was written. To write, fold, seal and address a letter properly in what looks to us now as the primitive days of correspondence required more ingenuity than it does now to pack a woman's wardrobe for a trip to the country. The charge for postage being on the single piece of paper without any reference to its weight, care was taken by voluminous letter writers—and more people wrote long letters then than now—to use as large a sheet as they conveniently could. The use of the mail for sending commercial paper was very expensive, because each check, draft, or bill on a separate piece of paper was charged an extra postage up to three of them. The regulation was that a letter of two pieces of paper was charged double rates, one of three pieces triple rates, and one of four pieces quadruple rates, provided the whole weighed an ounce. If the whole weighed less than an ounce only three rates were charged. A letter containing four or more pieces of paper, and weighing an ounce or more, was charged a single rate for every quarter ounce. By this rate a letter containing three pieces of paper—that is, the advisement and two checks—sent over 400 miles, would cost 75 cents; sent 30 miles or under, 18 cents. Such a letter sent from New York to Albany would cost 37 cents. If it was composed of the advisement and three checks, the cost to Albany would be half a dollar. Any article not a newspaper, magazine, or pamphlet sent in the mail was charged at letter rates—that is, one letter rate for every quarter ounce.

The way the postoffice "got even" with fraudulent representations as to the number of pieces of paper contained in a letter was calculated to keep a good general average, even if it sometimes bore hard on the individual. The postage was payable at the office of delivery, and if a postmaster suspected, or pretended to suspect that there was more than one piece of paper in the packet, he would charge the person to whom the letter was addressed double or triple rates. If the owner demurred to paying the charge, the letter was opened in the presence of the postmaster, and the number of sheets or pieces was thus ascertained. In nine cases out of ten the recipient of a letter preferred to pay the postmaster's charge rather than run the risk of there being more pieces than had been charged for. In case there were more pieces than charged for, the law required the recipient to pay for them all, notwithstanding the postmaster's blind estimate. Overcharges by the postmasters were thus depended on to balance smuggling of extra sheets into closely folded letters.

The high and awkward rates of 1816 continued in force till the development of railroads compelled the department and congress to adopt some more rational system as well as lower rates. The government was so slow about recognizing the popular demand for improvement that before a change was effected the business of carrying private correspondence as well as that of carrying periodical literature, newspapers, and small packages drifted largely away from the mails into private hands. The people petitioned congress for relief from high rates and from embarrassment on account of the anomalous unit of charge. At last in 1845, an act was passed reducing the letter rate to 5 cents per half ounce, regardless of the number of pieces of paper contained in a letter. The scale of distances was so simplified that for any distance under 300 miles the rate of five cents was charged, and for any distance over 300 miles, 10 cents. By the same act carrying letters by private enterprise was prohibited on all post roads, unless postage had been prepaid. Here was relief in both directions in which it was demanded. A person could by ascertaining whether his letter was to go 300 miles or more than that, and whether it weighed one-half ounce or more than that, tell precisely what the sending of his missive would cost. From this change of rate the expenditures of the department began to exceed the receipts so largely that repeated efforts were made to return to higher rates. But the fact seems to be that the department began to run behind in 1843. From the time it was organized in 1789 till 1843 there was an annual surplus. The first year of the government it was $5[illegible] profit. Ten years later, 1800, the surplus was $66,510. The falling off of revenue under the rates of 1843, not so much as the increase of expenditures on account of contracts with railroads and steamboats about that time, contributed to swell the annual deficits, and spur the statesmen of the period on the back track. The clamor of the people however, was too loud to be disregarded. No letter rate has ever been increased after a reduction has once been made.

The prepayment of all letters came about through the operation of the optional law of 1851, by which the rate of domestic letters was further reduced to 3 cents, provided payment was made in advance. If paid by the recipient, the old rate, 5 cents, was charged. People who had respect for their correspondents paid in advance. Those who sent letters grudgingly, as the payers of bills by mail, or who were naturally stingy, sent letters without prepayment. Under this law many letters were not taken from the office. Finally, in 1855, the law requiring all postage in advance, at the uniform rate of 3 cents, went into effect.

Baby Hell.

Even the young children at Saratoga are drawn into the whirlpool of dissipation and dance and dress and flirt to an extent that promises badly for their own future and for that of their parents and country. Children's hops and children's germans, children's fancy balls and garden parties are a regular feature of the season, both at Saratoga and Long Branch, and Newport is now the only watering place from whence details of children's gaieties and dissipations do not come. The folly and wickedness of these unnatural displays are sufficiently evident in the whole after careers and development of these unfortunate little ones. At 10 years of age the little girl of this [illegible] quality, at 15 she is an incipient woman of the world, and, as some one has aptly remarked, "knows as much as her mother, and enjoys her knowledge a great deal more." And this fast and hurtful training does not belong to New York or to any other city or section of country, but is most largely to be noticed at these fashion assemblages like Saratoga, where east, west, north and south are all represented. What this will eventually be is a grave and serious question. At present it might draw tears from the hardest worldling to see the wholesale destruction of nature's most beautiful work which is going on.

Stopping Holes in Ships.

Chambers' Journal.

In the life-saving section of the London fisheries exhibition is shown a simple contrivance for stopping holes in ships, which has been before the public for one or two years, and has during that time been instrumental in saving more than one vessel from destruction. It is known as J. W. Wood's self adjusting rivet [illegible] and leak stopper, and is applicable to ships, barges, boilers, torpedo boats, etc. It consists of a [illegible] covered with felt, which screws on to a rod at one end of which is a jointed T-piece. Supposing a [illegible] ship's side has to be stopped, [illegible] through the opening, [illegible] crossways, so that it cannot be readily withdrawn. The felted disc is now slipped over the rod and screwed firmly as far as it will go, and the operation is complete. The discs, of various sizes and shapes, are supplied to the admiralty and are coming into extensive use in the merchant service. The importance and efficiency of the invention have been recognized by the society of arts by the grant of their Albert silver medal.

MONTANA.

Only Seventeen Miles of a Gap.

MISSOULA, Aug. 20.—[illegible] track yesterday was sixty miles east of here, and the gap is shortened to seventeen miles. The end of the track on the other end is now within seven miles of the Little Blackfoot, but stages will continue to run from there to Deer Lodge until completion of the line. Strahl's Stomach Stolen.

CHICO, Aug. 16.—This afternoon the stomach of Riley Strahl, which was taken from the body when it was exhumed a few days ago, was discovered missing. It was placed in a jar and sealed up, and was in charge of a constable, and was left by him in the morgue, but when he went to look at it to-day it was gone, and nothing is known of its whereabouts. It was ordered removed from the body by District Attorney Jones, to be used in the examination and trial of the woman Hattie White.

THE KOOTENAI MINES.

Some Interesting Facts in Regard to the Region and Its Location—With a Few Items from Idaho and Pend D'Oreille Lake.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE OREGONIAN.]

SAND POINT, Idaho, Aug. 14.

Most mining camps, like the Roman empire, have had their period of decline and fall, and yet there lingers a subtle charm about the fascinating pursuit of mining which not only lures new and sturdier adventurers to go in quest of gold, but makes all who ever worked in the mines take an intense interest in what are termed the "latest strikes." This town is situated on a strip of sandy beach which extends for some distance into the noble sheet of water known as Lake Pend D'Oreille. Apart from the magnificent views it commands of the lake, its chief merit lies in the fact that it is the entrepot for the whole Kootenai mining country. Much has been said and reams have been written in extolling the mineral wealth and agricultural advantages of this recent discovery. From a man who is largely interested in the development of the mines, and who claims to have made some exceedingly rich strikes, I obtained the following particulars in regard to this Mecca of enthusiastic prospectors. Like many other mineral districts Kootenai was first blazoned forth to the world as a "placer camp," but in the course of time these deposits "petered out," and true to their nomadic instincts the miners wandered to other regions. Quartz has been discovered

THE KOOTENAI COUNTRY

By some of the hardy representatives of the Hudson Bay company as early as sixteen years ago, but the difficulties in the way of transportation, etc., prevented them from attempting to develop the mines at that time. Of late, however, closer investigation has revealed the fact that this section is rich in low grade ores, notably sulphurets of galena combined with a fair amount of silver. The outcroppings of these quartz mines were found on either side of Kootenai lake, which is on the other side of the boundary line between the United States and British Columbia. The distance from Sand Point to the mines is, according to my informant, something like 160 miles, and can be made with a pack-train—the only means of transportation at present—in five days. This pack trail leads from Sand Point to Bonner's ferry, on the Kootenai river, which is the line of demarcation between the northern boundary of Idaho and the southern side of British Columbia. After crossing the ferry the trail continues for the balance of the distance to the mines. The Kootenai Transportation Company, of which R. J. Weeks is the president, propose to construct a wagon road from Sand Point to within a short distance of Bonner's ferry. The road will there connect with a steamer which is shortly to be built, in which the greater part of the distance can be traveled by water. A boiler and engine for the proposed steamer have been constructed at New Tacoma, and when Mr. Weeks has his

WAGON ROAD COMPLETED,

The machinery will be hauled over to the river and placed in position in the boat. Among the mines which have given satisfactory indications thus far, are the Blue Belle, which is 100 feet wide, and the Gem, both of which are reputed to contain large bodies of ore. These mines are located on the east bank of the lake, while the other claims are situated on the west side of the lake. The ore is of a low grade, but is in such quantities, and is surrounded with such abundant facilities for working, that it will ultimately prove richer than the so-called high grade ores. It contains lead and silver and assays up to this time show that it will yield $30 to the ton, which will amply repay working. The facilities for reducing and manipulating the ore are unsurpassed. In the first place there is fire-clay for furnaces, iron, limestone and silica, which are invaluable for fluxing, and an abundance of wood and water. With these natural advantages it is thought that the metal can be shipped with profit direct to San Francisco via the Northern Pacific railway, and even finally find its way into the markets of the world. Nor are the mineral treasures of this region confined to quartz mines. A reliable merchant of Sand Point informed me that hardly a week passes that Indians do not come into his store with several hundred dollars

IN GOLD DUST

And nuggets which they exchange for supplies. Efforts have been made to get them to divulge the location of the streams in which they find the gold but all the overtures have been fruitless. One man offered $500 to have them conduct him to the spot, but the sullen Siwashes with sphynx-like stolidity declined the proposition. Kootenai lake is a vast inland sea, whose waters are alive with fish, containing among other varieties, several kinds of trout, one of which, in color, resembles the mackerel. Large quantities of salmon and sturgeon are also caught, many of the latter reaching the enormous weight of 300 pounds. These sturgeon are very plentiful and are caught in immense numbers by the Indians who spear them very adroitly. The game of this region would delight the average Nimrod of Oregon, and is numbered among the others like the caribou, a kind of reindeer, moose, elk, mountain sheep and goats, who attain a large size, black, cinnamon and grizzly bears and red-tailed and cotton-tailed deer. Most of these animals feed in the high mountain ranges, but in winter time are driven down to the lower levels on account of the heavy snow.

KINDS OF TIMBER.

The Kootenai country on both sides of the line is heavily timbered, having, among other trees, the pine, fir, cedar, tamarack, birch, alder and poplar. In some places the forests are so dense as to be impassable and prospectors have to make a detour around them. Not the least attraction of this section is a partially submerged valley, which contains 200,000 acres of land admirably adapted for agriculture. About 40,000 acres are in British Columbia and the balance in Idaho. A company has been formed by some eastern capitalists, which has for its object the reclamation of this land, and the gigantic proportions of their scheme will be realized when it is known that nearly every acre of land in the whole tract is arable in a high degree. Considerable complaint has arisen from prospectors and others in regard to the tariff imposed by the representatives of the British government at the boundary line. The provincial parliament have made nearly every article dutiable from a jack-knife to a jack-pony and much dissatisfaction has ensued thereat. Fierce forest fires have prevailed to an alarming extent of late along the whole line of the trail to the mines, thus preventing many from undertaking the trip. It is thought that several of the Kootenai mines will be in active operation by next spring. The company represented by Captain Blaisdell is pushing things forward as actively as possible and he now has a wagon intended to convey the

MEN AND PROVISIONS

to and from the mines. Harry Irwin, formerly proprietor of a restaurant in Portland, was in town yesterday, and when questioned as to his luck in the mines spoke very hopefully.

LAKE PEND D'OREILLE.

When I dashed along the shores of Lake Pend d'Oreille on an eastward bound train some six weeks ago I thought it was without exception the most beautiful sheet of water on the face of the globe. Its broad expanse of a dark blue hue, was unmarred by a single object, and the heavily wooded shores in the distance vividly recalled to my mind similar scenery on Puget Sound. I looked forward with pleasure to a day or two which I intended to spend on the lake upon my return from Montana. But man proposes, etc., and when I did come back, the woods were on fire in all directions and the heavy smoke so obscured things that I could barely see half way across the lake. The smoke grew denser during my stay in Sand Point, and the fish, with which the lake is said to abound, steadily refused to bite. The waters of Lake Pend d'Oreille are at times as placid as a mill-pond, but frequently squalls come up and its erstwhile serene surface is lashed into fury so that it is extremely dangerous for small boats or even large vessels to venture out. In winter time the lake rarely freezes over, and some of the residents go sailing over it in ice-boats—a noble sport, followed with considerable success on the Hudson river in winter time. The velocity of these strange rigged craft is astounding, and the pleasure to a reckless mind is no doubt increased by the spice of danger with which the sport is leavened. The town of Sand Point has undergone a slight decadence since the railroad hands

SHIFTED THEIR TENTS

From here some time ago. The town is built on either side of the railroad track and contains about thirty houses, which includes several hotels, a like number of saloons, and two general stores. L. J. Jackson, formerly of Salem, is engaged in the lumber business here, and has just come of the [illegible] which he carried on him from Webfoot. There is one industry that may be established at Sand Point in the near future, and that is the manufacture of glass. The sandy soil on the shores of the lake, I am informed by a man who knows, contains all the necessary elements for the manufacture of the finest kinds of glass. No person or parties have as yet interested themselves in this matter, and I think it would repay investigation by Portland capitalists. When it is known that there is little if any glass manufactured in the whole northwest, and that it could easily be made here, it seems that some of our citizens who have been purchasing this

ARTICLE OF COMMERCE

In San Francisco and the east could give employment to labor here and find investment for capital that would amply repay all concerned. The railroad track crosses the lake for over a mile at this point and is supported by piling the entire length. This is probably the longest bridge of the kind in the world, and some of the piles upon which it rests are 110 feet long. Some of the residents of this little burg have a robust faith in its rapidly assuming the dimensions of a city, alleging at the same time that it is the only place of any importance on the shores of Pend d'Oreille lake. But from my opportunities of observation I have come to the conclusion that it will never greatly exceed its present size or population unless some manufacturing interests are centered here.

Political Suggestion.

Boston Herald, Ind.

What is the democratic party doing to convince the majority of the people that their views so coincide upon this controlling question as to make it safe to invite it to step up and in? In only two states, and these strongly republican, has the democratic party ventured to declare for a tariff limited to the needs of the government for revenue. In two states—Virginia and Pennsylvania—it has pronounced in favor of the surrender of $100,000,000 revenue from whisky beer and tobacco, for the sole purpose of perpetuating the high protective tariff. The republican party is no better; in fact has the same end in view. But the democratic managers may be sure, as we have often enough told them, that if a majority of the people wish to continue the republican policy they will retain that party in power to execute it.

THE NORTHERN PACIFIC.

PORTLAND, Or., Aug. 20.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

A few weeks since I had an opportunity of examining into the working of one of the most perfect railways in the world—the London and Northwestern railway of England. In going from Liverpool to London I had often before experienced the advantages it affords in speed, in the smoothness of its roadbed, in the comfort of its carriages, in the charming country through which it passes, and above all in its punctuality. It has cost nearly $500,000 per mile; it transports [illegible] 100,000 persons daily; it has about 1500 [illegible]; its shops at Crewe cover more than [illegible] acres in buildings, and the average speed of express trains is more than forty-five [illegible]. It is managed by a board of directors whose names are well known throughout the financial [illegible]; these gentlemen give their [illegible] every month to its service. [illegible] many other items relating to that railway, [illegible] pass from one of the oldest and one of the most perfect of railways to one about to commence [illegible] crossing the Atlantic ferry, with the [illegible]. I have just had occasion to examine [illegible] the Northern Pacific railroad. [illegible] in the army, whom I chanced to meet at St. Paul, that he had to use three regiments [illegible] years ago, to protect the surveyors of this [illegible] the Indians, and that [illegible] was fighting all the way west of Bismarck. In fact [illegible] it has been built through fighting ground [illegible] very recent period. The facts I have given [illegible] the English railway are striking but [illegible] so than what an examination of the Northern Pacific discloses. Hundreds of miles [illegible] have passed have been built within [illegible] year, and yet the track was so perfect [illegible] of more than thirty miles per hour [illegible] without discomfort or suggestion of [illegible] to the traveler. We passed towns having [illegible] more than 2000 each, in localities where [illegible] not a dwelling within 300 miles three years ago; over mountains that seemed to [illegible] an effectual bar to our progress [illegible] where [illegible] must have required [illegible] men to precede those who made the surveys. Since arriving on this coast I have [illegible] at San Francisco on the south and Victoria on the north, and everywhere I have [illegible] business men are turning with hope [illegible] to the Northern Pacific road. The [illegible] lines have managed to antagonize the public to such an extent that if one was to [illegible] by overhearing he would think that all the [illegible] between the Atlantic and Pacific should [illegible] through Portland. At Victoria I [illegible] much of the Canadian Pacific, but I find [illegible] faces of all were turned toward the [illegible] Pacific.

THE BEAVER.

The Oldest Steamship Afloat on the Pacific Coast.

From the Resources of British Columbia.

Whilst strolling along the city front [illegible] upon the many objects of interest that [illegible] in and about the beautiful harbor of Victoria, attention was directed to a staunch little craft at Spratt's wharf, whose quaint style of architecture and weather-worn proportions [illegible] the ocean wave," at once long and eventful. [illegible] to learn more of the venerable [illegible] industry, we [illegible] search for facts, and to the [illegible] of one of the most prominent citizens and [illegible] Saunders, Esq., we are indebted for the [illegible] of this article.

Nearly half a century ago, when the [illegible] steam navigation was yet only in the [illegible] stages of evolution, when the telephone [illegible] electric light were not dreamed of, a vast [illegible] people gathered on the banks of the Thames [illegible] the launching of a brave little vessel [illegible] was destined, upon its traversing the waters [illegible] become, one of which was known [illegible] somewhere in the region of the [illegible] north-western shores of the western world. The reigning sovereign, William IV., and 150,000 of his subjects, including titled men and women, were present, watchful observers of the novel and interesting event. One of England's fair [illegible] bearing a coronet on her noble brow, dashed a [illegible] bottle of sparkling champagne, and [illegible] of [illegible] invoking the [illegible] of [illegible] Ocean," baptized the fair craft of the [illegible] by the name of Beaver.

She was built for the Hudson Bay Company in 1835, and was destined to ply between the fur-trading stations on the Pacific coast. The engines, of seventy-five horse power, and [illegible] were constructed by the firm of Bolton & Watt, the latter being one of the renowned inventors, [illegible] excellent condition of her engines to-day [illegible] testimony to the great [illegible] her builders. As it was not considered safe [illegible] steam on the passage out, she was rigged as a [illegible] and furnished with six [illegible] guns [illegible] equipped, accompanied by a bark [illegible] and commanded by Captain Home, the [illegible] down the Thames, greeted by encouraging [illegible] from the thousands who watched her [illegible] the shore, and which were heartily [illegible] by booming salvos from the vessel's brass guns. Crossing the Atlantic [illegible] the broad Pacific, and having her [illegible] she arrived at the Columbia river [illegible] After calling at Astoria [illegible] the Pacific coast [illegible] compliment to John [illegible], the New York millionaire, who was [illegible] extensively engaged in the fur trade, she got up [illegible] and sailed for Nisqually, the principal station of the Hudson Bay company on the Pacific, and [illegible] was employed in collecting furs [illegible] the company's various trading posts [illegible] this coast. She next passed into the hands of the Imperial hydrographers and a few years [illegible] purchased by the British Columbia [illegible] Transportation Company, [illegible] been running [illegible] service. It is to this [illegible] a most seaworthy and powerful tug [illegible] conjunction with another tug boat [illegible] vessel has been libeled [illegible] Thrasher [illegible] the accident which gave rise to the [illegible] celebrated [illegible] known in legal circles as the "Thrasher case," the merits of which are being [illegible] for final adjudication to the supreme court of Canada.

Doubtless few are living to-day who [illegible] the stirring wonder [illegible] the gallant Beaver took her first plunge in the yielding element. The [illegible] that opened to utter her name [illegible] forever ceased, and the gallant captain who [illegible] commanded on her first voyage, has long since [illegible] the rounds of his last watch and sleeps the [illegible] that knows no waking. Still, with [illegible] his lusty characteristic of the prototype, the Beaver works and works.

MAL DE MER.

Some Popular Remedies for the Evil of Sea-sickness.

Many people, as soon as sea-sickness comes on, have recourse to oranges, lemons, etc. Now, [illegible] a very much to be avoided on account of [illegible] tendency, and even the juice of a lemon [illegible] should only be allowed in cases of extreme [illegible]. Champagne, too, is a very common remedy, and [illegible] in many cases does good, but [illegible] is [illegible] chiefly due to its exhilarating [illegible], [illegible] continued, the result is bad, and a [illegible] amount of prostration follows.

[illegible] very old [illegible] still very good remedy, [illegible] in cases accompanied by great prostration, [illegible] very useful, if given in the early stage [illegible] is often followed by very good results, [illegible] prevents [illegible].

Bicarbonate of soda is used in slight cases, as it [illegible] nausea and checks the tired [illegible] such attacks of seasickness; [illegible] severe cases it is absolutely [illegible].

A very good remedy in the earlier stages of seasickness is a teaspoonful of Worcester sauce. How [illegible] I cannot say; but it, without doubt, relieves the symptoms and renders the patient easier. Its action is probably of a stimulating nature.

Hydrocyanic acid is of very little service, and most acid mixtures are to be avoided, except, perhaps, for drinking purposes, when [illegible] a little to the water with a small quantity of [illegible] chloric acid.

Of all the drugs used I found the most effectual was bromide of sodium. When bromide of [illegible] is given in doses of ten grains, three times a day, the attack entirely subsides, the appetite improves and the patient is able to walk about with comfort.

In all cases of sea-sickness it is very desirable that the patient should take sufficient food, so that, [illegible] the stomach may be comfortably full, [illegible] by means of retaining [illegible] is prevented and the amount of [illegible] checked. The practice of taking a small glass of dry [illegible] is [illegible] of much use, as, although the brandy [illegible] the stomach, yet the amount taken is [illegible] to comfortably fill the stomach. Soups [illegible] puddings are to be avoided [illegible] cause the [illegible] to be sick, and are [illegible] provoking eructations. Fat bacon is [illegible] and does not [illegible] good if only the patient can [illegible] over it. When taken in moderation [illegible] acts like a charm, and is followed by very good results.

But of all food, curry is the most useful [illegible] weakness, and is retained by the stomach when all other food has been rejected. Next come, I [illegible] small sandwiches of cold beef, [illegible] on the paste, and are usually retained by the stomach.

In conclusion, I would advise that brandy should be used very sparingly, as, in many cases, it [illegible] sea-sickness, and its chief use is confined to cases where the prostration is very great, and [illegible] champagne is more effectual.—British Medical Journal.

A Tell-tale Murillo.

A few days ago an elegantly dressed and beautiful lady, stated to be an Italian countess, called at the police office of the Faubourg Montmartre, and complained that some valuable family [illegible] had [illegible] and disappeared, and that she [illegible] that one of her servants had stolen them. [illegible] commissary, went at once to [illegible] residence, Rue Lafayette, and thoroughly searched the servants' apartments, but found nothing. [illegible] his attention was attracted to a picture of Judith, which hung on the wall along with some other choice paintings. He gradually [illegible] the account [illegible] of a Judith by Murillo [illegible] with other pictures and money, [illegible] from a credulous gentleman by a [illegible]. The commissary [illegible] the lady, who, on seeing him, [illegible] while he identified her as [illegible] was, of course, arrested at once, and the commissary inquiry revealed that she was the [illegible] Julie, born at Batignolles, and for years has been [illegible]—London Times.

This is to certify that I am well acquainted with a man fifty years of age, for many years a resident of this city, who has been at times extremely ill, but could not tell from what cause, unless it was worms. He told his attending physician his suspicions, but the physician at once ridiculed the idea, and refused to attend him any longer. His son then mentioned Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and asked him if he would take it; his reply was—I must take something to get relief, or die.

They at once procured a bottle of Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, and he took one dose. The result was, he passed upwards of three quarts of worms, cut up in every form. He got well immediately, and is now enjoying excellent health; and, like the good Samaritan of old, is endeavoring to relieve his unfortunate neighbors. He makes it his business to hunt up and select all cases similar to his own, that may be given over by regular physicians, and induces them to try Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge. So far he has induced more than twenty persons to take the Vermifuge, and in every case with the most happy results. He is well satisfied that Dr. C. McLane's Vermifuge, prepared by Fleming Bros., of Pittsburgh, is far superior to any other known remedy, and that if more generally known would not fail to save many valuable lives. For further particulars inquire of Mrs. Hardie, 114½ Cannon street, New York City.

TWO-CENT POSTAGE.

A change in the price of letter postage is something which rarely occurs, there having been only four changes in the schedule of rates since the post office department of the United States was organized in 178[illegible]. The last change, requiring all postage in advance, at the uniform rate of three cents, was made in 1855. Stamps for the prepayment of postage at the option of the sender—the rate being three cents if paid in advance and five cents if paid by the recipient—were adopted by the department in 1847, seven years after they had been shown in England to be practicable and convenient. But it took people a long time to get used to this last innovation. The postmaster-general, in his report made just after the law of 1855 went into effect, deplored the stupidity of people as shown by their neglect to affix the stamp. "Through the press," he said, "and by placards at the letter boxes, every possible publicity has been given to this law—yet from inadvertence, fraud, or other cause letters continue to be deposited without prepayment." For some time postmasters all over the country informed people that letters addressed to them were waiting for stamps; but after his patience was exhausted the postmaster-general, James Holt, ordered all unprepaid letters to go to the dead letter office. As experience has shown that people are slow to accustom themselves to a changed rate, it is not too early, perhaps, to call their attention to the fact that the law of the last congress providing for another reduction of letter postage will go into effect on the 1st day of next October. On and after that date the rate of postage on letters will be two cents for each half ounce or fraction thereof.

This reduction, like the previous ones, was a popular project long before it was seriously considered in official circles. It was first considered as possible by the government in the report of Postmaster-General James, which was written in November, 1881. He then said that if Congress would carry out his suggestions for the reduction of expenditures for postmasters' salaries, for clerk hire for star-route service and other branches of the service, and also for a more equitable adjustment of rates on the different classes of matter carried in the mails, "the reduction of letter postage from three to two cents will be possible within three years." His successor, Mr. Timothy O. Howe, was not so sanguine in regard to the feasibility of reducing the letter rate. While recognizing the demand for less expensive correspondence, he proposed instead of lowering the price of postage stamps, the novel remedy of cheapening envelopes, and increasing the rates on fourth-class matter. His plan was to have the government furnish stamped envelopes for the cost of postage simply, or in other words to issue a three-cent stamp so constructed as to permit a letter to be folded into it and sealed. This plan was not favorably received by congress. The general demand of the people for two-cent postage was too strong to be disregarded, and accordingly the law before referred to was passed. Mr James expressed the belief that this reduction could be accomplished without the proportionate diminution of receipts which followed the adoption of three-cent postage in 1851. The people, he said, have shown their appreciation of cheap postage. The introduction of the postal card in 1873, instead of diminishing the receipts, on the whole, largely increased them. When the approaching reduction was recommended by Mr. James the excess of expenditures of the department over receipts was $2,481,129 35. One year afterward when Mr. Howe proposed the expedient of cheaper envelopes instead of cheaper postage, the excess of receipts over expenditures was $1,354,3[illegible] 92, and the postmaster-general was able to say that, "for the first time in thirty-one years the postal service is not a burden upon the treasury."

It is worth noticing in this connection that no letter postage-rate has ever been increased after a reduction has once been made. In this respect the government has taken no backward steps. The time is not distant when the rate will be still further reduced to one cent, the rate which now prevails in England. The success and popularity of this branch of the government service amply justify the power granted to congress by the constitution, "to establish postoffices and post-roads." It is interesting to observe the guarded manner in which the Federalist expressed its approval of the wisdom of the framers of the constitution, in entrusting this power to congress. "This power," it says, "must in every view be a harmless power; and may, perhaps, by judicious management become productive of great public conveniences." And then it adds this remark, which may be recalled with propriety in connection with the proposition that the government should establish a postal telegraph, that "nothing which tends to facilitate the intercourse between the states can be deemed unworthy of public care." Story, in commenting on this clause of the constitution, says "it may well be deemed a most beneficent power, whose operations can scarcely be applied except for good; accomplishing in an eminent degree some of the high purposes set forth in the preamble of the constitution; forming a more perfect union, providing for the common defence, and promoting the general welfare."

The guarded expressions of the Federalist show how much the growth and prosperity of the country have outstripped the most sanguine anticipations of our most enlightened patriots. In the first year of Washington's administration there were only twenty-five postoffices. Now there are nearly fifty thousand, and their number is increasing at the rate of about one thousand each year. In its ceaseless labors the department pervades every channel of commerce and every theatre of human enterprise, ministering to all climes and creeds and pursuits with the same eager readiness, and equal fairness of fidelity. And the reduction in the rate of postage, which will soon take place, will increase the popularity of this service, as it supplies cheaper facilities to the increasing demands of business and social life, and at the same time render more intense the solicitude of the people for the preservation of its purity, and the prosperity of its administration.

The date for the opening of the public schools is near at hand, and already scores of children are being brought home from the summering places preparatory for the year's work. But all that is disagreeable and unwholesome about the summer is still with us. The heat is oppressive, the dust is a constant annoyance, and the smoke is an abomination. To put children into school under these conditions is scarcely less than cruel. All the advantage of the summer's rest will be overbalanced by the first few sweltering weeks. We believe that the directors would do a proper and popular thing by extending the vacation at least three weeks—or until this abominable eye-destroying and throat-parching smoke clears away.

All citizens doubtless will realize the importance of putting forth an effort to make the demonstration in honor of the completion of the Northern Pacific railroad a credit to the city. Though money has been secured for expenditure under direction of the committee, much may still be done by individuals to add to the effect. In particular, all ought to get ready for the illumination. To this every one who has a building or window can add something. The suggestion doubtless will be sufficient.

Daily indications for a long time have pointed to the probability that the wires below Kalama have been cut or tampered with. The behavior of the wires in that locality from day to day can scarcely be accounted for on any other supposition. A number of men supplied with instruments and stationed in that locality, might do a good deal toward keeping up steady telegraphic communication.

DEATH OF JERE BLACK.

Jeremiah S. Black is known to the country by his ability as a lawyer, but his chief celebrity was derived from his acts as a member of Mr. Buchanan's cabinet during the critical period that preceded the outbreak of the civil war. Over Mr. Buchanan he had great influence; and, though he was more loyal to the Union than most of his associates in the cabinet, he failed to rise to the great emergency of the hour. On the contrary, he supported the irresolute and imbecile policy of Mr. Buchanan, if he did not actually inspire it, and was ready with reasons supplied from the constitution to prove that the government could not make war to meet the aggressions of the rebellion. In an opinion which Mr. Buchanan had called upon him, as attorney general of the United States, to prepare upon questions which the crisis had precipitated, he proceeded to say that when the United States no longer had judges, district attorneys, marshals or other officials in a state, and therefore no agents to execute its authority, it was necessarily at the end of its powers. "What," he asks, "can be done in case we have no courts to issue judicial process and no ministerial officers to execute it? In that event troops would certainly be out of place, and their use wholly illegal. If they are sent to aid the courts and marshals, there must be courts and marshals to be aided. Without the exercise of those functions, which belong exclusively to the civil service, the laws cannot be executed in any event, no matter what may be the physical strength which the government has at command." Now, the situation in the seceded states was just that which Judge Black had stated. All the officials of the United States had resigned, a rival government had been set up, and civil process of the United States could not be executed at all. What then was to be done? Nothing; for Judge Black went on to say: "Under such circumstances to send a military force into any state, with orders to act against the people, would be simply making war on them." This, perhaps, never was equalled, except by Justice Dogberry, who gave a legal opinion to the constable to the effect that if the thief would not stand when bidden to do so in the king's name, he was to "let him go and thank God he was rid of a knave."

This piece of history is recalled partly to remind the younger class of readers how the government was driven on to the brink of destruction under "strict construction of powers," and partly to furnish the same class with information as to the man whose death is just announced. Judge Black was a democrat of the Jeffersonian school. The central idea of this political system was that the states were sovereign and the general government had no power. Impotence had been organized into a system and was at the head of the government, and the rebellion was set on its feet without protest or hindrance from the United States.

Somewhat later Mr. Black was made secretary of state, a position which he held during the last two months of Mr. Buchanan's term. As the government was driven on towards disruption he seems to have thought it time to interpose some objections to the acts of the secessionists, and by refusing to be the facile instrument of their whole purposes, he became an object of their dislike and has never been forgiven. This is the secret of the long letter published against him by Jefferson Davis less than one month ago, in which Judge Black was accused of having abandoned the policy he had first urged, and of taking part with those who "instigated and aided in forcing the war upon the southern states." It was understood that Black would publish a reply, but it is not known that any had been prepared.

As a statesman Judge Black belonged to the school which was so long splitting hairs upon questions of constitutional power. All the rubbish of his so-called statesmanship was consumed in the white heat of the civil war. As a lawyer Judge Black was adroit and able; as a man he bore an honorable reputation; but his public service, though doubtless well intended, was like that of Mr. Buchanan, a hurtful thing to his country.

SWEEPING AND WATERING OF STREETS.

Years ago when Portland was a village, it was ordained by the city council that each occupier of property abutting upon an improved street should have that part of the street in front of his premises swept once each week. This rule worked well enough ten years ago, when we had but two or three improved streets, but it poorly fits our present condition of cityhood. The system occasions no end of bother, is not thoroughly efficient and in the aggregate costs fully double what would be a proper and fair charge for maintaining the streets at all times in good condition. Under this vexatious plan a thousand people must once each week bother with a trifling business in which they are at the mercy of a class not noted for liberality of dealing. By all means, the streets should be cleaned by the city government. If the whole job were let to the lowest bidder the work could be done for half what it now costs under the "retail" system, the work would be done more regularly and better, and householders would be relieved of a great annoyance.

The city, too, ought to water the streets in summer. Heretofore street sprinkling has been wholly a voluntary matter, and the merchants on Front and First streets have usually kept those thoroughfares comparatively free from dust. Recently the general "improvement" of the back streets has made it absolutely necessary to keep them constantly damp to prevent the dust from flying in stifling clouds. The discomfort from dust this summer has been so great as to disgust many with our city as a place of residence, and as other streets are "improved" and as they become worn the annoyance will become more serious. A few householders have tried to protect themselves by watering the streets to the windward, but the cost has been very great, and, owing to the fact that fine dust floats a great distance the protection has been but partial and unsatisfactory. The city ought to maintain fifteen or more water wagons, and keep them constantly in commission during the dusty season. Water is cheap, almost to the degree of costing nothing, and the cost of putting it on the streets cannot be very heavy. The city ought to do it.

If it be true that the city needs the services of an accomplished civil engineer, if it engages such services and gets the benefit of them, then undoubtedly it ought to pay for them a fair valuation. We are told that the new duties imposed upon the superintendent of streets make it quite necessary to secure a man for that position who has qualifications of a high order; and in fact the charter requires that he shall "possess the qualifications of a civil engineer." But if the city is to have a department of streets and works and carry it on upon principles of engineering science it certainly does not want to maintain a city surveyorship as a separate office to conflict with it. Indeed, as the charter now stands, the work of the city surveyor should come properly under the direction of the engineer in charge of streets and works. The better salary then ought in justice to be paid to the superintendent of streets and, in fact, under the new system the city surveyorship, as a separate office, ought to be abolished. The charter has been "tinkered" so much for the promotion of one job or another as to be wholly incongruous. Undoubtedly there is force in the plea that the superintendent of streets ought to have more pay than his subordinate, the city surveyor; but if the city has arrived at the point where it needs the services of a civil engineer as superintendent of streets, then the office of city surveyor, as distinct from the other, has become unnecessary and ought to be discontinued.

The striking telegraph operators of this city held a meeting yesterday and decided unanimously not to apply for re-instatement, nor to accept work again in the Western Union office and while this manly stand will occasion some delay and inconvenience to the public, it will generally be admired as a piece of good grit. Ten years from to-day, no doubt but that these men will be better off than if they had stuck to the keys.

LIGHT DAWNING ON PENNSYLVANIA.

The Pittsburg Leader, published at the head center of Pennsylvania tariff fanaticism, in discussing the scheme of Wharton Barker to distribute the surplus revenue among the states and so save the war tariff and maintain high taxation in perpetuity, cannot resist the impulse to tell its readers the following plain truths in very plain language. It says:

"We may as well look the matter in the face, gentlemen of Philadelphia—by no such artificial scheme as this can the inevitable be shunned, and the inevitable is just this: unless there is another war or such a prodigal expenditure of public money on rivers and harbors and public works, and Mexican and confederate pensions and workingmen's homesteads, etc., such as the world has never yet seen, the tariff must go, not suddenly we hope, not disastrously if we properly prepare ourselves for it; but as certain as this country is to grow in population and wealth, good sense dictates that we Pennsylvanians should not fight this result with wild projects and fanciful dreams like the Barker scheme, but should give our best thought and patient endeavor to found our industries while we have yet time on such a solid basis that they can undergo the coming change without shock, and blossom out into new prosperity when they stand no longer on government props but on their own merits."

Commenting on the above, the Louisville Courier-Journal adds:

"This is very excellent counsel. There is not a protectionist in the state of Pennsylvania who does feel that his system of wholesale extortion is not formidably threatened by a decided change in public sentiment. That sentiment is working slowly, to be sure, but it is working surely. Men, in all walks of life, are beginning to question seriously the dogmas of the protection group. Constantly succeeding periods of over-production and the concomitant closing of mills, for instance, are furnishing the basis of these questionings. There is but one answer. The 'encouragement of American manufactures' has long reached that point when the home demand is amply supplied and there are no foreign markets where the over-produce can be sold. Yet we continue to hold on to a suicidal policy which forbids us foreign markets and pins our manufacturers down to the home market. It is useless for protection organs to repeat the stereotyped assertion that the 'poor workingman' is dependent for his existence on the intention of the remorseless taxing machine known as the protective tariff. Is the repeated shutting down of furnaces and mills a benefit to the workingman? Are his burdens lightened by heavy tariff taxation and the closing of the factory where he gets employment? Is the protective tariff a 'perpetual blessing' to labor, when the amount of wages paid in 1880 was [illegible],212,000 less than the wages paid in 1870? Is it a 'boon' to the country when it cripples the manufacturer by contracting his market, by destroying our foreign commerce, by lessening the purchasing power of the wages paid?

"These are questions of the hour; they are very live questions."

"Boss" and "Henchman."

Chicago Times.

When the servile and unmanned henchman of some party boss or "influential politician" gets an appointment in the civil service to compensate him for dirty work done for his master, he immediately realizes a peculiar personal and political interest in keeping his place. He knows that to keep his place it is necessary that his owner shall keep his place, and that for his owner to keep his place it is necessary that he shall be admitted to share in the president's exercise of the appointing power; and that for that purpose it is necessary that the president shall be of his owner's party, or ring. So it becomes his peculiar personal and political interest to use his office and contribute from his official stipend and devote his time and such faculties as he may possess, not to the right discharge of his duties as a public servant, but to aid his owner to the senate.

MULTNOMAH, THE MOST BEAUTIFUL AND accessible suburban property in the market, is an undulating plateau naturally drained, cleared and nearly all in grass, commanding a view of Portland, East Portland, Albina, the Willamette river and all the improvements made and to be made by the North Pacific Terminal Company; has just been laid out into blocks 200x400, lots 50x100, streets 60, and alleys 15 feet. This property is part of the Thompson donation claim, on which are located all of the improvements made and to be made by the Terminal Company on the east side and adjoins on the south the Proebstel claim, on which is the most valuable property in Albina. Multnomah is situated about half a mile north from Albina ferry, 300 feet from N. P. Terminal Company's east line, 150 feet north machine shops and car works, 600 feet east from O. R. & N. Co.'s railway track; 300 feet from Willamette river, O. R. & N. Co.'s depot, warehouse, elevator and N. P. R. R. proposed bridge. To enable the Multnomah Railway Company to construct its railway from Front and Morrison streets along the route and during the life of its franchise—in Albina ferry to the center of the tract—lots for a limited period are offered at very low prices, ranging from $200 to $400. Terms of sale: One-fourth or more cash, balance quarterly. By agreement at time of purchase, payments may be made in ten or even monthly instalments. Interest on deferred payments [illegible] per cent; 5 per cent off for all cash. Apply in person or by letter to the undersigned, at 165 First st., corner Morrison. JNO. R. WHEAT.

FOR SALE—150 ACRES LAND 1½ MILES EAST of Woodburn Station, O. & C. R. R., all under fence; 30 acres in cultivation; 40 acres small brush easily cleared; 10 acres swamp land; balance timber. A bargain. Terms, $35 per acre. Call on B. F. COOLEY, Woodburn, Or., or REED & WILLIS, Salem, Or. Woodburn, Or., Aug. 18, 1883.

TIMBER LANDS ON PUGET SOUND.—2,500 Acres of choice timber lands on Puget Sound are offered for sale on reasonable terms. These lands were selected by an expert, and entered at the U. S. Land Office in 1870. Title perfect. They are eligibly situated for logging or milling, and are unexcelled in value of timber by any like tract of land on the Sound. Information regarding the same may be had of Walter [illegible], lumber merchant, Oakland, Cal.; J. W. Brazee, J. D. Brown, 344 Second st., Portland, or M. V. B. STACY, Seattle.

LITTLE HOMES ON THE INSTALLMENT plan: one-fourth cash, balance in monthly payments of $10 per month, with interest. I will sell five acres for $250; 10 acres for $475; 20 acres for $825; near the city of Portland; suitable for suburban homes, and adapted to the growing of small fruits or for gardening purposes. Now is the time to buy. Don't wait, when [illegible] one so cheap and on such easy terms. Come and take a free ride and see this property. HARRISON R. OATMAN, northeast corner First and Stark street.

SPECIAL NOTICES.

CITY

PARTICULARS OF THE VICKERS MURDER.—The following particulars of the murder of Percy Vickers at the summit of the Cascade mountains are gleaned from a man who came in yesterday from the scene of the tragedy. The murderer is a man by the name of Steele, who has been employed by [illegible] a mill in the capacity of cook. It seems [illegible] a double-barreled shotgun from a man [illegible] Fisher, living in that vicinity, and [illegible] with it. Fisher at once procured the [illegible] of a constable and [illegible] with a son of Fisher, [illegible] in pursuit, and on arriving at the Gates at the mouth of Salmon river they found that [illegible] and an old man had been there and got some [illegible]. At this place the constable [illegible] and started for Phillip McIntyre into service [illegible] Steele's place where it was ascertained that Steele [illegible] off the gun to Mao for a Sharp's rifle. [illegible] making the trade Steele and his companion [illegible] the summit of the Cascades, where Perry [illegible] the proprietor of the hotel that [illegible] for a long time. The pursuing party now [illegible] Vickers was a brave, determined man, got [illegible] to join them in the chase after the thief [illegible] and after [illegible] some time they saw at some distance [illegible] two camp fires one on each side of [illegible] which they were certain had been made by [illegible] and his companion. When they arrived at [illegible] place, which was close to White river and [illegible] miles from the summit one of the pursuing [illegible] wishing to throw the thief off his guard [illegible] that he would go on and get pasture for the [illegible] while the others agreed to pick out a place [illegible]. Two of the party turned to the fire on the [illegible] hand side of the road Vickers turned to the [illegible] and dismounted, and at that instant without [illegible] word being spoken a flash and the report of a [illegible] heard and Vickers staggered and fell being [illegible] through the bowels. Vickers managed to discharge the contents of a six-shooter after the thief [illegible] which effect is not known, as he disappeared [illegible] timber. The murderer left his hat, coat and [illegible] on the ground near the fire, and at last [illegible] neither he nor his companion had been [illegible]. The shooting took place at 11 o'clock at [illegible]. Vickers was taken back to his place where [illegible] in agony until 7 o'clock Sunday morning when he died.

[illegible] OF AN OPIUM FIEND.—A striking instance of the truthfulness of the saying that "necessity is the mother of invention" can be seen at the [illegible]. It consists of an opium pipe, [illegible] one, which was found in the cell [illegible] an opium fiend had been confined. It consists of a small whisky flask, through the side of which a hole has in some manner been drilled. This [illegible] in the bowl of the pipe and is fitted with a [illegible] out of a piece of broomstick. In the [illegible] of instruments with which [illegible] a hole through the stick, it was split [illegible] channel cut along the center after which the [illegible] were put together and firmly bound with [illegible]. To the opium smoker a lamp over the [illegible] of which to roast or cook the drug [illegible]. This the ingenious fiend had supplied by a [illegible] pill box in which was a little fat while a [illegible] piece of rag supported by a wire laid across [illegible] supplied the place of a wick. From the [illegible] "yen shee" which remained upon the [illegible] of the box, it is evident that the fiend had to [illegible] is quite a number of long draws the [illegible] having probably been passed in to him by a [illegible]. Now the fellow must have enjoyed his [illegible] after all the labor expended in manufacturing his pipe and lamp.

RIGHT OF WAY OBTAINED.—A council was held at the Umatilla Indian agency on the 17th inst to arrange for the purchase of the right of way for the O R & N Co branch railroad from Pendleton to [illegible] ville. The Umatilla Examiner says: The [illegible] company was represented by their attorney J N Dolph and Chief Engineer J Thielsen. The Indians were represented by their four chiefs, Homily, Young Chief, Showaway and Winum[illegible] and their agent, E J Sommerville. The object of the meeting was fully explained to them by the [illegible], who was followed by attorney Dolph stating they desired right of way between Pendleton and Centerville and that they were willing to pay [illegible] was just and fair for the land [illegible] but three hours deliberation they agreed [illegible] the right of way [illegible] the railroad company [illegible] them $5 per acre for all land occupied. The [illegible] of this road will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible to this point, giving us what we [illegible] waited so long and patiently for—railroad communication with Portland. This, situated as [illegible] in the heart of the richest and best agricultural country east or west of the Cascades assures [illegible] a future prosperity second to none [illegible] county.

HIGHWAY ROBBERY.—While Henry Clay Hill [illegible] of 1843, who works in the Oregon Furniture Manufacturing Company's establishment and [illegible] lives in Stephens' addition to East Portland [illegible] on his way home Sunday night he was assaulted by two men. Mr Hill was passing an [illegible] in the vicinity of Seventh and V streets [illegible] sprang upon him from behind [illegible] caught him by the right arm [illegible] Hill held a knife, and [illegible] grasp was so sudden the knife flew out of his hands into the brush [illegible] other man gave him a severe blow in the face [illegible] some heavy object, supposed to be a club. The [illegible] of the blow knocked him senseless. The robbers then went through his pockets taking some [illegible] dollars. The victim of this outrage does not know how long he remained there, but when he recovered consciousness he got up and walked home. Mr Hill's injuries, though quite painful are by no means dangerous, and he was able to appear in the [illegible] yesterday.

[illegible].—An intelligent Chinaman who for several years conducted an [illegible] for the purification and destruction of soiled [illegible] at the north end and thereby accumulated [illegible] considerable coin, concluded last fall to try his luck at farming. He rented a farm up the valley and was [illegible] in his accustomed haunts [illegible] when he returned looking very seedy [illegible] and very dubious. One of his old pals [illegible] meeting him, said, "Well Lung how did you like it at farming?" "No likee [illegible] good" replied [illegible] sadly. [illegible]

THIRD STREET RAILWAY.—The Transcontinental Railway Company have completed a single track [illegible] Third street as Grant, and will commence running cars thereon regularly on Thursday [illegible]. As soon as the material arrives the road will be completed to Sheridan street. It is probable that [illegible] coaches will run from Sheridan street [illegible] bridge to the south end. In a few days he road will be completed and run running as far north [illegible] and G streets and it is expected that the [illegible] will be in running order by October [illegible] road has been built in a very thorough manner and the cars are very comfortable. New cars arrive [illegible] steamer, and [illegible] will be well stocked and conducted in a manner to deserve the patronage of the public. The double track runs as far as [illegible] the pavilion, and will be of great accommodation to the public during the coming fair.

CONVICTS CAPTURED.—From information received by the authorities in this city, a telegram was [illegible] Friday to Marshal Burkhart of Albany to [illegible] that two escaped convicts from the Washington territory penitentiary were supposed to be in [illegible] county. From the description given it was ascertained by the marshal that the men were in [illegible] and one was soon captured. The other [illegible] escaped into the country. Strict watch was kept and it was learned that he had gone to Brownsville. Yesterday Mr Burkhart took a [illegible] and, by carefully tracing the prisoner [illegible] arrested him at a farm house about [illegible] miles south of Albany. They both [illegible] right men and are now lying in jail awaiting orders from the territorial authorities.

PRIVATE INSANITY.—The case of John Beck who [illegible] and inflicted upon P Howard a severe wound with an ax last Sunday evening was called yesterday in the police court and Howard being [illegible] the friend it was continued until to-day. It is [illegible] by Beck's friends in extenuation of his crime that he is not responsible for his actions and [illegible] not have been allowed to be at large at all. It [illegible] has twice been sent to the insane asylum [illegible] Cal and even when in [illegible] wildly and [illegible] is liable to be a dangerous person. Though all his [illegible] friends strive to [illegible] it does not lessen the magnitude of his injury one particle. If he was [illegible] to be at large he should have been [illegible] an asylum.

SAILBOAT ACCIDENTS.—As usual on Sunday a number of careless people went sailing on the Willamette and consequently two boat loads were spilled into the river. The [illegible] at Ringleader when op[illegible] Ross Island ran into the Ilewild? [illegible] in the side of the other. When the two boats [illegible] after the collision the Ringleader tipped over [illegible] its occupants well deserved wetting. The Ilewild [illegible] was [illegible] over [illegible] at about the same time by a party of land lubbers who never should have been allowed to leave the shore. Fortunately all those who got the cold bath were rescued [illegible].

TURNER'S BALL.—This evening the members of the Portland Turn Verein will give a grand ball and supper at Turn halle on Fourth street in commemoration of their twelfth anniversary. Invitations have been issued to the many friends of the organization, the holders of which will be entitled to participate in the festivities without charge. As the association has never failed in like occasions to afford their friends an enjoyable time no doubt this entertainment is looked forward to with lively anticipation by those who have been fortunate enough to be invited.

TRANSFERRED TO PUGET SOUND.—It is reported in steamboat circles with much authenticity that the steamer Lurline, one of the fastest boats that lies on the Columbia and Willamette rivers will be taken to Puget Sound this fall to run [illegible] Seattle in those waters. She will probably be placed on the Whatcom-Seattle route.

U S DISTRICT COURT.—Judge Deady will deliver an opinion in this court this morning in the case of the West Portland Homestead Association vs. Lowns[illegible], assignee, on the demurrer to the bill.

THE STRIKE ENDED.

A CARD FROM ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT LAMB

The Striking Operators here Reject the Conditions on which the Telegraph Company would Allow them to Resume Work.

WESTERN UNION TELEGRAPH COMPANY,
OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT
PORTLAND Oregon Aug 20 1883

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN: Briefly the telegraphic situation at present is as follows: Superintendent Jaynes telegraphed me yesterday from San Francisco that the strikers at Sacramento and San Francisco had applied for employment that he could send me all the operators I needed and asked how many he should send.

A form of agreement to be signed by all strikers seeking employment was also telegraphed. Its substance is a promise to withdraw from present membership and refrain from future membership or affiliation with secret or open societies which in any wise attempt to regulate the conditions of service or its payment.

Thinking that some of our old force might wish re-employment I delayed telegraphing for operators. This afternoon a committee from the strikers waited upon me to learn the terms upon which they could be re-employed. A copy of the form of agreement was given them and they withdrew returning shortly to say that the operators declined to apply for re-employment if required to sign the agreement.

I have telegraphed Superintendent Jaynes for operators and will shortly have a full force. Yours respectfully,

F H LAMB
Assistant Superintendent

Although the telegraph strike is a failure in the east the Portland strikers after interviewing Assistant Superintendent F H Lamb and inspecting a copy of the iron clad-oath which is furnished by the Western Union Telegraph Company for the signatures of those striking employes who wish to return it was determined by the Portland strikers that they unanimously reject the terms of this telegraph company believing that in justice to themselves their honor and their friends they could not accept its conditions offered. A copy of the aforesaid iron clad oath would be furnished for publication were it not for the fact that the committee had promised the company not to divulge its contents.

AMUSEMENTS

THE SPANISH STUDENTS.—The novel and fascinating entertainment given by the Spanish students is thus described by the San Francisco Bulletin: Their programme included a [illegible] from William Tell, a Moorish serenade, the Neva waltz, a gavotte by Arditi and a very pretty mazurka. Without particularizing, it is exquisite rendition of each number it may be said that they were all designed to show in turn the almost incredible effects of light and shade which this company of sixteen guitarists and performers on the mandolin have managed to achieve by long patient practice. They are only assisted by their rector who, from time to time increases the sustained quality of tone which is the great charm of all their playing by his violin and by one of their number who gives body to the grander passages by means of his violin cello. There are nine performers on the mandolin, and five guitarists. For the information of those who do not exactly understand how a mandolin is strung and played, it may be stated that it has six little double sets of wires and strings which are manipulated by a fine piece of tortoise shell with such a swift movement of the wrist as to produce by an up and down stroke waves of sound so continuous as to render the vibrations almost as connected as the long, sweeping tone of a violin or a beautiful vox humana stop on a church organ. The slow movement of the Neva waltz and the lovely Moorish serenade, particularly exemplified this effect of sustained notes.

The students left Spain five years ago since which time they have been all over the East and through Europe playing in the principal cities of Great Britain and of the Continent. They live together wherever they go and harmonize with each other perpetually as perfectly as do their guitars and mandolins. They are eighteen all told, and will shortly be joined by another of their number who has been sick.

They open at New Market theatre Saturday evening next. Reserved seats at Cornelius drug store.

RETURN OF THE CIRCUS.—Sherman's educated horses and European circus, which is at present conducting a highly successful circuit through eastern Oregon and Washington will re-open in this city on the evening of Monday the 28th inst and also perform on the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, the 29th. This will be the last opportunity to see Barney and Tommy the wonderful trained horses as the circus will go from here to Mexico, and thence to Europe. It is improbable that they will ever return to Oregon.

PERSONAL

Dr Clark of Mansfield Clackamas county was in the city yesterday.

The Misses Gantenbein returned yesterday from their cottage at the sea shore.

Dr R G Rex returned yesterday from his eastern trip much improved in health.

The Misses Eva and Minnie Brooks of Portland are visiting relatives at McMinnville.

BRIEF MENTION

The Columbia sails for San Francisco Wednesday night instead of to-night her schedule day.

Freight will be received here on and after next Saturday the 25th inst for St Paul and all points east.

One hundred and fifty seats will be placed at the side of New Market stage to accommodate the crowd to-night.

W Stokes architect of the new high school building has returned from California and will in future give this work his special attention.

Frank Black a young man who was reported as mysteriously missing from this city about five months ago has turned up in Sacramento.

That portion of the lumber of the Anderson scaffolding which was hauled to a ranch outside of the city disappeared in the fires prevailing recently.

From many sections comes the cheering news that the wheat crop is turning out better than was expected. At Prospect farm Umatilla on Saturday 1160 bushels machine measure, were threshed. Superintendent Lee Moorhouse states that the crop on the farm is averaging better than was expected the volunteer being quite as good as the summer fallowed land.

SUGGESTION TO LUMBERMEN

PORTLAND, Or Aug 20

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN

As a feature of the procession attendant upon the last spike driving I suggest that the lumber interests of the city be given a place constituting any division under a marshal aides etc. Let the mill proprietors unite in rigging up a four or six horse conveyance for the [illegible] and their have out every lumber team loaded [illegible]. Have all the mill and yard hands distributed along [illegible] on the wagons and [illegible]. A few banners with appropriate inscriptions would be in order.

At the different mills now in [illegible] there are employed thirty or more teams hauling lumber, and 300 to 400 men—enough to make a very respectable feature of the grand turn out, and quite proper if the trades generally are to be represented.

HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Arrival of the Great Divine—Unsatisfactory Trip from Montana to Portland.

"Please tell me something of your trip," asked an OREGONIAN reporter of Rev Henry Ward Beecher at the Esmond last night. The distinguished orator accompanied by his wife and Major J B Pond manager of the New York lecture and musical bureau arrived by the Columbia river train and had just finished his dinner. The reporter was presented to Mr Beecher through the courtesy of Major Pond.

"I wish I could tell you something," said Mr Beecher cheerily answering the reporter's inquiry, "but I did not see anything. I could not have known less of the journey if I had been a letter locked up in a mail pouch thrown aboard the cars at Missoula and opened on arrival here. The smoke obscured everything and from The Dalles to Portland we were in a continuous wave of dust. I am afraid you won't get much out of me to-night."

"It is to be regretted that you missed a sight of our magnificent mountain and river scenery," said the reporter by way of comfort.

"Oh yes, I heard about Mount Hood and The Dalles of the Columbia and the Cascades and Cape Horn all the way down," said Mr Beecher, "and every few minutes was told what magnificent views would be in sight if the weather was clear. It was such a comfort to me." And Mr Beecher heaved the sort of a sigh that old man Allen gives in "Esmeralda."

Manager Stechhan of New Market was announced and upon being introduced Major Pond complained that the title of the first lecture was not properly announced, it should be "Evolution and Revolution."

Mr Stechhan informed Mr Beecher that several families had asked the privilege of entertaining him during his stay. The great orator answered that he would much rather put up at the meanest hovel of a hotel than be the guest of a millionaire in the finest mansion. He gave a very amusing description of introductions to the family and of the part he was always expected to perform in entertainment of them. "The fact is," said Mr Beecher, "a man's brain contains only so much force. If he expends it in entertaining people during the day he has none left for the night and I prefer to reserve mine for my audiences."

"Do you like to have visitors?" asked the reporter.

"If I have a lecture in the evening," answered Mr Beecher, "I usually lock myself up in my room during the afternoon and refuse to receive strangers. Visitors in the morning I do not annoy me."

Turning to the reporter he said as if the thought had just struck him:

"You people that get out THE OREGONIAN ought to be put to death with hot needles for using such small type and making people blind."

The reporter explained that perfecting presses and the means of getting out supplements were not so convenient in Portland as in New York, and that a great amount of matter had to printed in a limited space. No one regretted the necessity for the use of small type more than the proprietors of the paper.

"Well if they show contrition," said Mr Beecher, "I forgive them."

Mr Beecher is in good health, and barring the exhaustion of his long trip is in fine spirits. Mrs Beecher leaves this morning for Seattle to meet her son Captain Beecher.

GOVERNMENT SURVEYS.

What is Being Done by the Party of Engineers now at work at the Mouth of the Columbia River.

As an invited guest of Mr Otto Von Geldern assistant U S engineer an OREGONIAN representative, recently at Ilwaco went on board the little tug Tom Morris Captain Snoelling master, accompanying for a day's trip the government party now engaged in making surveys at the mouth of the Columbia river. In addition to Mr Von Geldern into whose care the minor detail of this important work are entrusted by his superior Captain Chas F Powell the party consists of Messrs Geo W Freeman Joseph C Ensign Geo B Cabaniss and Harry Reeves. The combined labors of these men will when complete give a result alike valuable to the interests of Portland and the grain fleet of this season as well as furnishing a most excellent comparative chart for the benefit of future surveys that may be made.

Through the courtesy of Mr Von Geldern and his able and efficient assistant Mr Freeman the writer was enabled to obtain some important data in regard to the progress of the work at the present time—what has already been accomplished and what has been planned for the remainder of the summer. The party has been at work for over two months and have about finished the survey and soundings upon the bar and in Baker's bay. Several thousand soundings have been made and a plat of the bay shows an intricate network of lines crossing each other at various angles with the depth of water at every point. As these soundings were taken at all stages of the tide together with the time the work of reducing them all to the mean of low tide is no slight one and will occupy two weeks or more.

The result of the observations upon the bar itself can yet hardly be scientifically given and the exact condition of the two channels will be much better understood after all the soundings are reduced and plotted. It can be said however that the channel through the middle sands is better wider and more direct than any previous one. So much however cannot be said of the depth of water in this channel. While most of the way there is water enough to float the deepest draught vessels yet at the entrance to the channel inside the bay there is a hump on which there is but 18 feet of water at low tide. Whether there is any other way into this channel than over this hump of sand has not yet been determined.

The present survey compared with the records of the many that have been made since the first one in 1792 by Captain Gray shows an entire change of all the sands on the bar and it is well known that this change is continually going on. The survey of Sand island which has also been made more completely than ever during the present summer shows that it has moved to the northward. The island is crescent shaped, and the north end of the crescent is continually growing larger and longer.

This week the party have turned their attention to Clatsop and Peacock spits and after that they will take soundings in the river channel more particularly where the hulk of the Sylvia de Grasse lies. The spits never before have been surveyed but this year it is being attempted in life boats in spite of the breakers. Although a perilous task it is considered essential to know how the sands upon the spits are changing.

THE "PENNSYLVANIA."

A Word for the Finest Equipped and Best Managed Railroad in the World.

It is a matter of congratulation to the pioneers of Oregon that the committee has chosen as the route from the east to the Atlantic the Pittsburgh Fort Wayne and Chicago and the Pennsylvania railroads. The trip over these routes will give to the sturdy pioneers the best practical illustration of the perfection attained by American railroads. In the management of the Pennsylvania road there has been brought to bear the ripest experience and best judgment — safer and more comfortable can not be imagined. It has the finest rolling stock in the world and the handsomest trains. Scenery along the line is surpassed only by the scenery of the Pacific coast and [illegible] the country [illegible] better time. But the chief claims of the company for public favor is that every provision against accident known to railroading is employed and passengers are absolutely certain of courteous treatment from conductors and other employes. The Pennsylvania has reduced every branch of its business to a science.

FUGITIVE CAPTURED.

G. W. Smith, Accused of Killing Mrs. Petch, Now in Jail.

FOUND OUT AFTER A YEAR'S FREEDOM

Singular Fate that made Him a Prisoner Just One Year to a Day After the Foul Deed was Committed

News was received in this city yesterday of the capture and lodging in jail of G W Smith the Yamhill man who is thought to have killed Mrs Mary A Petch about a year ago. The capture was made on Friday last and both the Lafayette Register and the Yamhill Reporter with commendable enterprise issued extras with all the particulars obtainable at the time. The following from the Register is the best history of the crime and arrest:

On the 17th of August 1882 the horrible intelligence was communicated that Mrs Mary Petch was killed while riding home with her stepson, Joseph Petch, from North Yamhill. The circumstances with few exceptions pointed to G W Smith as the probable murderer. Smith had been absent for some time before the murder and various statements concerning threats he should have made were in circulation. The coroner held a hasty inquest which not being satisfactory a second inquest was held good counsel was employed and a number of competent physicians were employed to hold a post mortem examination. Several new facts were ascertained but nothing to change the current of testimony against Smith and after investigating the case for several days the Coroner's jury rendered a verdict to the effect that the shooting was done by G W Smith who was accordingly indicted by the grand jury at the next regular term of the circuit court. Meanwhile every possible effort had been made to apprehend and arrest Smith without any apparent trace of his whereabouts and the hopes of his arrest were almost abandoned up on last Saturday evening, a hack containing three men was driven up to the jail and when was found the con[illegible] the long desired G W Smith. The other two men were A S Catlin who had first arrested him, Tillamook but now of Salem and Thos. Mahoney of Hebo in Tillamook county.

The Reporter gives a very full account of the capture and an interview with the alleged murderer in his cell as follows:

Smith is a prisoner in the county jail at Lafayette. He was captured on Friday last at the residence of Mr. Thomas Malaney on the Nestucca river within a short distance of Nestucca bay. The particulars of the affair we were not able to get in detail from the captors themselves but in the main they seem to be as follows:

Catterlin claims to have been on the track of Smith for months. At any rate on the day of the capture he was in that section and was stopping at the house of a settler on the bank of the Nestucca who keeps a boat and is in the habit of carrying travelers across the stream. A stranger appeared desiring to be crossed. The man of the house being absent his wife asked Catterlin to take the boat and set the traveler over the river. Catterlin did so and upon meeting the passenger at once recognized him as Smith the long sought and notorious refugee whose name and portrait have been exhibited in nearly all the sensational publications of the nation from the Atlantic to the Pacific and whose phantom counterpart has harrassed the vision of scores of hunters who have trod the fastnesses of the Coast range.

The man had some conversation as they crossed when Smith was landed and went peaceably on his way. Catterlin soon took steps to trap his man. Smith took the trail in the direction of Malaney's house. Catterlin took around through the brush reached Malaney's and informed him of Smith's approach. Allen was with Malaney and a plan was soon concocted upon which to arrest. The long time victim came trudging along. His captors lay in ambush. Suddenly Smith was confronted by Malaney. At the same instant, according to pre-arrangement, Allen stepped up behind Smith with a gun leveled upon him and ordered him to throw up his hands. Thus attracted and confused Smith turned his head to regard his rear assailant when Malaney who is a powerful man sprang and seized him and easily held him until he was disarmed when he was securely tied and completely powerless in the hands of his captors.

Catterlin it seems was not present during the transaction but was immediately at hand and claiming legal authority in the matter took Smith into custody and he and Malaney started for the seat of Yamhill county with the prisoner. They reached their destination at 6 o'clock on Saturday evening and consigned the charge within the grated portals of the rural Bastile de Lafayette.

IN HIS CONFINEMENT

Smith appears in a mood by no means ill at ease. He sings at times laughs and chats cheerfully with visitors as though he apprehended no trouble whatever in the fate that lies before him. Among the many who have called upon him was a representative of this paper. We find him to be a man about 5 feet 5 inches in height with full side beard and bare chin, light hazel eyes which [illegible], have a genial expression. Hair moderately long and both beard and hair quite gray. Altogether he is a rather pleasant looking man. He is not inclined to reticency in the least. On the contrary he talks glibly and with no appearance of reserve or embarrassment. "I had got tired of this," he volunteered "and was ready to give myself up. I knew all about the trap these men had made for me and could have escaped if I had wanted to." The question why he took the direction he was going when captured if he wanted to give himself up suggested itself but as he is not on trial he had the choice of answering questions or not hence this point was not explained. To the question "Why did you run away?" he said: "I feared prosecution for perjury. The Petches have evidence that would have convicted me. I had [illegible] forty acres of land [illegible] and sold it. I felt perfectly conscientious in taking the land I did there. The law might construe it differently. Petches could have sent me up for four or ten years. I am 52 years old and getting at that age in life where I couldn't stand such a pullback. It was the fear of the prosecution that kept me in concealment." He refused to tell me where he had been during the past year further than to say that he had discovered some mining lands in the mountains and had done something at them though they yielded him nothing. This explains the hut discovered a few [illegible] ago by hunters from this place wherein some flour was found and other evidences which led them to believe that it was the rendezvous of Smith.

When captured Smith was well armed and had quite a budget of clothes and [illegible] and about $30 in money.

So at last the only clue to one of the most cruel and unmanly murders that ever darkened the annals of the country has come forth. To fix the crime is another task. Many things of interest bearing upon the subject might now be said in these columns but fairness and impartiality forbid any prejudicial utterances in view of the trial he is to come. It is no breach of justice however for us to remark right here that circumstantial though everything pertaining to the trial may be there is a fearful train of circumstances for G W Smith to face and if he is not the cold blooded, heartless murderer of Mary Petch then his life during the past year has been one of indiscretion bordering upon criminality and wantonness that was low [illegible] in itself. It was due his family if not himself if innocent to clear his name of this black stain first and foremost of all things. Now let him do [illegible] he can.

NEWS NOTES FROM THE DALLES

THE DALLES Aug 20

Melons are very plentiful in our market.

The Rev Henry Ward Beecher passed through here to day.

The smoke is denser this morning than it ever has been before this year.

Dan Rowland who was reported missing has turned up all right. Daniel is hunting for a coal mine in Columbia county. [illegible] he has sent up word to his relatives here [illegible] positively seen in pursuit of the aforesaid coal mine.

M Miley while returning from Mt Hood met with an accident which came near being fatal. His horse slipped and rolling down the embankment near [illegible] both rider and horse were lodged against a tree but a short distance from the chasm. Mr Miley was bruised and [illegible] considerably but sustained no fractures.

A man named Martin a section hand at Mosier's committed suicide by jumping into the Columbia river a mile below that place one day last week. His body was found floating in the river last Sunday evening. Coroner Hobson summoned held an inquest yesterday. The man was an Englishman—a newcomer with no family.

Ray Smith a lad about 12 years old grandson of Mr Joseph Beezly while out hunting last Friday with two other boys his brothers was accidentally shot by one of them. The shot were scattered over his body from head to foot one of them piercing his right eye. Dr Hilmer being called extracted all the shot in his body which merely entered the skin but was unable to remove the one in his eye. The boy will probably lose the use of that member.

Texas Siftings.

Not long since an Austin lawyer was appointed by the district judge to examine a candidate for admission to the bar. The young man was rather deficient in Blackstone and Greenleaf. It looked very much as though he lacked the requisite preparation. "Do you know what fraud is in the judicial sense of the word?" inquired the examining attorney. "I don't—I hardly think I do," was the stammering reply. "Well fraud exists when a man takes advantage of his superior knowledge to [illegible] an ignorant person." "But that's it is it?" "Then if you take advantage of your superior knowledge of law to ask me questions I can't answer, owing to my ignorance and in consequence thereof I am refused a license I will be injured and you will be guilty of fraud. Won't you, judge?" The idea was very thoughtful for a few moments and he added reflectively: "My young friend I perceive you have great natural qualifications for the bar. I shall recommend that a large handsomely engrossed and richly engraved license be granted you in spite of your ignorance."

Strikes in France

Although the labor market in France has been for some time past in a tolerably quiescent state disputes have latterly begun to arise and several trades in consequence have become unsettled. In Paris the malcontents consist of the shoemakers, who have picketed the shops during the strike, the harnessmakers who demand a day of ten hours work, with a minimum wage per hour of sixty centimes and the curriers many of whose places have been filled up with hands from the provinces. At Rennes the cabinet makers are on a strike for an increase of from thirty-five to forty centimes, and although the employers have conceded this the men refuse to go in until their whole trade rules are revised. At Nantes there is a dispute with the skinners and leather dressers, at Pau with the glass workers, at [illegible] with the masons, at Marseilles with the makers of barrels for exporting cement, at [illegible] (Pas-de-Calais) with the colliers in consequence of the stoppage of the men's families of the free coal allowance, at La Ferte sous Jouarre with the mill stone makers for increase of wages, and at St Quentin with the embroiderers.—London Times.

TUESDAY MORNING AUG. 21, 1883

NEWS OF THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

A slight frost occurred at Baker City Thursday night.

A. B. Elmer of Baker City melted over $180 of gold dust into three bars Thursday.

Baker City Tribune: Men, teams, plows, scrapers, etc., passed through town yesterday to work on the railroad, commencing at Rock creek and coming this way.

The Baker City Tribune says: Two or three days ago a party or parties hitched a mule team to the Carter toll gate and walked off with the same. The toll gate business in that vicinity is generally looked upon as an imposition, and no attempt to force collections is made when parties refuse to pay.

The Heppner Gazette rarely indulges in personals, but when it does something original invariably is the result, as witness the following: "Sheepwick Charley, who herds sheep for the Bend brothers of Gedferneban gulch, arrived in Heppner last Tuesday in a terrible stew. His house was covered with fl[illegible]m, as having ridden from his sheepcamp on Overall creek, beyond the John Day, a distance of sixty miles, in five hours. His business was urgent, he having come in to get some medicine for his dog, who was suffering from a severe sore throat, caused by eating frying-pan bread without butter. Cash Mallory mixed up a strong gargle of salt, vinegar and red pepper, with a soothing lotion of syrup squills and myrrh to finish off, and, armed with these remedies, Charley hurried back to relieve his faithful friend."

Tribune: Sol. Center, superintendent of the Calumet Mining Company, arrived in Baker City direct from the mine via Union, Thursday, for the purpose of purchasing a supply of powder, steel, fuse, hammers and other mining tools and machinery. Mr. Center is an experienced copper miner, having served an apprenticeship in the copper mines of Lake Superior, and although the character of the ore of the Calumet of the Eagle creek range is different from that of the Calumet of Lake Superior, he feels confident that our Calumet will develop a mine of great value. Mr. Center is employing good, practical miners, and thinks he will give employment to 300 or 400 men next year. It is the intention of the Calumet Company to keep men at work all winter, and they expect to ship ore to Salt Lake, Detroit, St. Louis and Chicago at an early day for treatment.

Southern Oregon.

Peaches are ripe in Douglas county.

A Y. M. C. A. reading room has been established at Roseburg.

There is considerable diphtheria about Kerbyville and elsewhere in Josephine county, there having been several fatal cases.

Small lots of wheat have been sold at Jacksonville for 85 cents, but most of the farmers there are holding their grain for a better price.

James Short, of Douglas county recently killed a cinnamon bear weighing over 600 pounds, after a desperate fight, in which three dogs were wounded.

The Jacksonville Sentinel says that within a couple of weeks there will be a force of several hundred men grading through the valley, and there is some sticky land that can be worked to best advantage while dry.

In the case of John Justus, now in the county jail under sentence of death for murder, says the Jacksonville Sentinel, a stay of proceedings has been obtained by his counsel. The appeal papers have been perfected and his case will go to the supreme court on review.

Sentinel: The railroad company has about 175 men employed on railroad work on the Siskiyou mountains. Of this number about 60 Chinamen are employed in building a wagon road from near the Soda Springs house to Buck Rock, which the company will use for hauling their machinery and supplies for digging the several tunnels in that section.

Roseburg Independent: Threshing is pretty well through. The yield is much better than was expected at the beginning of harvest. In many places the wheat is better than last year. Mr. Connett, living near Riddle, on the 13th of April finished sowing a 40-acre field of wheat, and on the 11th day of August threshed 1600 bushels, grown on the land.

The Roseburg Plaindealer says: We have received the intelligence that Mr. A. J. Moody, of Florence, on the Siuslaw, died on Monday last. He was formerly sheriff of Coos county, and was one of the first settlers on the Siuslaw, being engaged in merchandising at that place. He was an upright citizen and highly respected by all with whom he was acquainted.

Jacksonville Sentinel: On Friday the 10th anniversary of Jacksonville Lodge, No. 10, I. O. O. F., was celebrated by the fraternity in excellent style, a large number of visiting brothers from Kerbyville and Ashland being present. After ceremonies in their own hall the brethren clothed in regalia, and, preceded by the Jacksonville band, marched to Hell's hall. After some choice vocal music an oration was delivered by Hon. W. I. Nicholson of Yreka.

Roseburg Independent: Will Q. Brown, superintendent of the Nickle mine, near Riddle, in this county, has just returned from San Francisco, where he has had a quantity of the ore smelted and reduced. He exhibited to us a bar of the metal, which is entirely pure and free from any and all conglomeration. The yield was fully up to what was expected, and the freedom of the ore from other metals renders it more easily reduced than the ore from most other mines. The numerous uses to which this metal is being put and the large quantity of ore at the mine, make it one of the richest mines on the Pacific coast.

Roseburg Independent: F. P. Hogan learned late Thursday night of the arrest of Clark Melville, alias Denver, one of the persons supposed to have stopped the stage some two weeks ago beyond Wolf creek, in Josephine county. He is the same person who got away from Constable Smith at Leland, who had arrested him for robbing Riddle's store, at the Siskiyou. Mr. Hogan and Eugen Shelby, Wells, Fargo & Co.'s agent, took the railroad track and went to Oakland. Mr. Hogan and James H. Mahoney got a buggy and came back to Winchester bridge, where early Friday morning they captured their man. Sheriff Pardon had started on his trail from Roseburg, but arrived after the capture. The prisoner is now in jail.

Western Oregon.

Outside canneries at Tillamook, Gray's harbor, the Quinault and elsewhere will begin operations this week.

Lieut. Wood of the Twenty-first Infantry has been assigned to temporary duty at Fort Canby.

The body of E. Friday was found on the beach three and a half miles below Ilwaco last week. The coroner's jury found that the deceased came to his death by falling out of his boat and drowning while under the influence of liquor.

Washington Territory.

There is a lively contest at What[com] for possession of tide water flats.

Walla Walla's new officers intend rigidly to enforce the "sunday ordinance."

Drunken Indians are making it unpleasant for the citizens of Yakima and vicinity.

The new steamer for Montesano has been named the "Governor Newell." She will go on duty about September 1.

The subscription for the Northern Pacific reception and celebration at Seattle has reached $2,000 last Saturday.

It is reported in Walla Walla that George E. Reed has bonded his Granite creek mining interests to Eastern capitalists for $60,000.

Yakima Signal: Some twenty-five or thirty railroad men came up toward Ainsworth early in the week to go to work on the road north of here. Thirty-five more came up later in the week.

Yakima Record: Messrs. Darland & Murray were awarded the contract for carrying the mail from this place to Ainsworth. The first mail will pass over the new route on the first of September.

Large numbers of Indians pass through Seattle daily on their way up White and Puyallup rivers, where they will be employed during the hop picking season. Four large canoes filled with bucks from Barclay Sound went up the White river Friday.

At a meeting of the board of trustees of the Chehalis Valley academy, held in Montesano last Saturday, steps were taken which indicate that it is the purpose of that body to push the affairs of the institution, whose interests they have in hand, with much vigor.

G. B. Wilson, an employe of the Port Blakely mill, was struck on the head by a heavy piece of timber Friday afternoon and received serious injuries. He was taken to the Seattle hospital, where he is receiving all possible attention. His injuries are serious and it is feared fatal.

Yakima Signal: Joseph Stephenson came down the Cle-el-um mining district on Thursday. He and his associates have discovered what promises to be one of the richest copper regions in the world. Pieces of mineral weighing several hundred pounds and assaying as high as 60 per cent of copper are lying round loose.

Quite a number of teams from the Oregon Short Line, the property of Kingsman & Smith, passed through Walla Walla on Saturday, bound for the Palouse road, where they will work on sub-contracts. The outfit consisted of sixty-five mules, nine wagons and a quantity of scrapers and company paraphernalia.

Whatcom Reveille: P. B. Cornwall, president of the Bellingham Bay Coal Company, will arrive here in a few days and begin active operations on the new B. B. & B. C. railroad project. His company will probably do a large amount of work on Bellingham bay which will be beneficial. The surveyors of the railroad are now prospecting on the Nooksack for a desirable place to cross the river.

The Yakima Record says: Mr. John Fullerton of Victoria, B. C., passed here on Monday with 2,300 of the finest mutton sheep we have seen. He purchased them in the John Day country, Oregon, crossed the Columbia river at Ainsworth. Will cross the Cascades via Snoqualmie pass, thence to Victoria. Commissioner Eglis inspected the flock and pronounced them sound. Mr. Fullerton says British Columbia depends on Oregon to grow her mutton.

Montana.

Talmage is heading for Helena. He was at St. Paul Monday night, and is intending to lecture at the principal towns along the Northern Pacific.

The 14-year-old daughter of R. S. Brown, who lives on Ninth avenue, Helena, was severely scalded on the lim by the upsetting of a kettle of hot water. Her injuries are not thought to be dangerous.

The assessors convention, which held a meeting in Helena Monday, decided upon assessing the roadbed of railroads within Montana at $4500 per mile. Telegraph and telephone lines will be assessed at $100 per mile.

A private dispatch from the Yellowstone national park states that while President Arthur and senator Vest spend much of their time fishing, Gov. Crosby remains in camp consulting the mosquitoes and vetoing their bills.

Lieut. J. H. Thompson of Fort Missoula was in Helena Sunday, and departed for his post Monday morning. Lieut. Thompson will take charge of the work of putting up the Big Horn monument. The monument, he states, has been removed from Silver Bow to Dillon, whence it will be taken to the Big Horn battle grounds. Its weight is between 11,000 and 12,000 pounds.

Says the Helena Independent: A man named Robeb, who came in last night from the valley, reported that a dead body was lying alongside the road, between town and Milligan's place. Coroner Steele immediately went out to investigate the matter. The coroner returned at midnight and stated that when himself and companions got down to the place where the dead man lay, the latter got up and expressed his intention of licking the whole outfit, which, however, he was persuaded not to do. All that ailed him was too much benzine.

THE CHILDREN OF ISRAEL.

GLIMPSES OF THEIR LIFE IN THE WORLD'S LARGEST JEWISH CITY.

Their Various Classes and Callings—Where and How They Live—Their Cleanliness, Thrift, Etc.

Correspondence of the Indianapolis Journal.

New York, Aug. 2.—This is well-known to be the largest Irish city in the world. That is, it has a larger Irish population than any other. I don't know how many larger German cities there are, but certainly the number is small. Of one thing I am certain: This is, by all odds, the largest Jewish city in the world. More, there is larger business carried on by Jews here than in any other city on earth. More yet, a larger proportion of the population is Jewish, and a larger proportion of the business is carried on by the Jews than in any other important city in the world. Time was—and within the memory of young people to-day—when New York's citizens of Hebrew descent were mostly congregated in one, or two or three distinct quarters, and were confined to a few certain lines of business. The Bowery and Chatham street and Chatham square were their home on the east side, and on the west Eighth avenue. They still hold these grounds. But from the Bowery they have spread up Third avenue, and from Chatham street they have crossed over to Broadway. To-day the signs on the most imposing stores along Broadway bear Jewish names. Nor are they mere pawnbrokers' shops or ready-made clothing stores. The Jew deals in all classes of dry-goods, from calico to silk brocade; in jewels, in hardware, in bread and meat, in everything.

In Fifth avenue, if door-plates do not display Jewish names, it is because door-plates are out of fashion. The physiognomies seen in the windows and in the finest carriages are Hebraic. The finest church building on Fifth avenue, except the Roman Catholic cathedral, is the Jewish Temple Emanuel. The total Jewish population of New York alone is nearly a quarter of a million, to which adjacent cities will add many thousands more.

TRIBES OF ISRAEL.

From all lands and all ones the wandering Jews have come hither. There are German Jews, Polish Jews, Russian Jews, French Jews, Spanish Jews, a dozen other kinds of Jews, and, finally, Jews pure and simple, straight from Jerusalem. Among themselves, however, they know no such distinction. With Jews, a Jew is a Jew, with one saving clause. There are two general classes, and of these one looks down upon the other. The one is composed of the descendants of those Jews who flocked into the Iberian peninsula upon the heels of the conquering Arabs. They came direct from the Orient. When the inquisition smote them they fled from Spain into Portugal and England, where they fought their way upward through the greatest disabilities until one of their number, as premier of England, swayed all armed Europe in submission to his will. Some few also settled in France. Others lingered on the north African shore, and many of their kindred clung fondly to old homes in Palestine. The children of these were the first Jews to seek new homes in America, and coming hither from England they became planters at the south and rose to high social rank. These Jews may be known as Orientals, although they come hither from the European countries named. They compose about one-third of the Jewish population of New York. The other and more numerous, though socially inferior class, comes from Germany, Poland, Hungary, Russia and Roumania. They are the money-making Jews, and in financial and commercial importance they have far outranked their higher-toned brethren. Of these, if we may subdivide them, the Teutons are the bankers and merchants, whose treasure vaults line Wall street, and whose palaces of merchandise crowd both sides of Broadway. The Slavs are the small pawnbrokers, and the ready made clothing dealers on Chatham street and the Bowery, who so industriously and insinuatingly draw in each passer by, to fit him out with clothes—with a coat which "fits you shust like de paber on de wall, so help me crayshus!"

NEW JERUSALEM.

The Hebrew quarter proper of New York—that is, where the Jews have actually crowded every one else out—is on the east side, and is the home of the Slavonic, or Polack and Russian Jews. It is along Chatham, East Broadway, Grand street, Division street, and the blocks that lie between, and also Allen street and Ridge street, where the Hungarian Jews bear sway. In this part of the city you may walk for blocks without seeing aught but Jewish names on the signs and Jewish faces in the streets and in the houses.

This Jewish quarter is a cleanly one, comparatively speaking. It has not the vile stenches of the Italian quarter in Jackson street, nor of the quasi-pagan, but principally African slums of Thompson street. It has not the reckless dirt and broken-down look of the Irish streets, nor the shiftless, lazy, reeking filth of Second avenue, or "Little Germany." If cholera should invade New York, the death rate in New Jerusalem would not be large, thanks to the cleanly habits prescribed by the Mosaic law, and which, to the Jews' credit be it said, are faithfully kept to the present day.

They are a busy set, too, these Slavonic Jews. As I stroll along the street, glancing in at open windows, I see every one hard at work. Here is a house in whose front room are twenty women operating sewing machines. They are making underclothing, and the rattle of the machines fills the air with industrial harmony all the day long. Here is another shop, every square yard of space utilized by cobblers, hammering away, stitching away, cutting away, polishing away, and turning out the best of hand-made boots and shoes at a lively rate. Here is another room where a score of busy workers are turning out artificial flowers that will next week be sold on Fourteenth street, as the "latest importations, direct from Paris." In the next house, feathers are being prepared for the adornment of the ladies of Murray hill. Here is a huge mill, where buckwheat grits and other curious combinations of grain are prepared. Here are wine stores, butcher shops, bakeries, groceries, stores and shops of every description, all kept by Jews and patronized by Jews.

IN THE SYNAGOGUES.

This Jewish quarter boasts dozens of synagogues, and the people are generally very attentive in their regard for the religion of their fathers. I doubt if even the Irish Roman Catholics are more strict in attendance at mass. There is not much that is inviting about the synagogues. They are for the most part up stairs in ordinary buildings, over stores and shops. Generally a small wooden sign between two of the windows bears the name of the congregation, in Hebrew characters. Within there are two rooms, small, and almost without furniture. The sumptuous furnishings of the tabernacle and temple are conspicuously wanting. In the front room is a table or desk for the rabbi, and there is a cupboard where a copy of the Pentateuch is kept. That is all. In this room the men gather. The rear room, separated from the front by a partition reaching only half way to the ceiling, is the court of the women. Gathered thus, each sex by itself, the worshippers sit waiting the time to lay aside all thoughts of trade and gain and gold, usually so predominant in the minds, and fix their thoughts upon Jehovah with devout concentration. But on the morrow the world will have again full sway in every mind.

The most important synagogue of the Polack Jews is Shaari Zedek, in Henry street. One Saturday morning I went there at 10 o'clock to the services. The men had seats on the main floor—for it was a church-like building—and the women in the gallery. A huge, semi-circular platform occupied one-third of the auditorium, and on it stood a pavilion whose roof rested on four massive columns. Along the frieze ran the words in Hebrew: "Know then before whom thou art standing." Inside the pavilion, the Pentateuch, written on huge scrolls of parchment, rests behind crimson silk curtains, and just before it is the rabbi's reading desk, where he stands with his back to the people.

Other Jewish synagogues are much more pretentious, and as I have said, the Temple Emanuel on Fifth avenue, is one of the finest religious structures in the city, having cost considerably more than a million dollars.

Boise City Statesman: Mr. Page, living on the south side of Boise river, opposite the city, had a valuable mare stolen from his pasture Tuesday night. The matter was placed in the hands of the sheriff, and a deputy started with a warrant in pursuit of the thief.

There is considerable excitement among the people living in Indian valley over a coal strike near the middle of the valley. The coal was struck three feet below the surface with a layer of whitish clay on top, and the vein was three feet six inches thick, when they came to a regular slate formation. They have not gone through the slate, but were preparing to test it, thinking they would find a heavier body of coal below the slate. It is supposed that the whole valley is underlaid with coal. They were burning the coal in the blacksmith shop near by, and it appears to be good coal, though no one claimed to be a judge of this mineral.

JOSH BILLINGS HEARD FROM.

NEWPORT, R. I. August 11, 1880.

Dear Bitters—I am here trying to breath in all the salt air of the ocean, and having been a sufferer for more than a year with a refractory liver, I was induced to mix Hop Bitters with the sea gale, and have found the tincture a glorious result. [illegible] have been greatly helped by the Bitters and am not afraid to say so. Yours, without a struggle,

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

MONDAY, Aug. 20.

The first shipment of Willamette valley wheat came to hand to-day. Lots of eastern, aggregating 3238 centals, also arrived to-day. The general situation in this market is unchanged. Shippers refuse to make a quotation, but claim prices being made in the interior are above the market value and must come down. It is reported, on what seems good authority, that buyers now operating in and around Walla Walla will reduce their bids at once. The English market quotes valley cargoes nominal at 49s 6d@49s 9d. Figures ruling some days ago and previous to the spell of fine weather in England. Probably 49s 6d is now a full figure on valley. No quotation yet available for eastern cargoes, and possibly samples of new wheat must arrive at Liverpool before a value can be established. The Chicago market is stronger and New York steady at a shade higher price.

FREIGHTS.

Our market may be said to have an improved tone, but it is purely a sympathetic one, as there is little or no active demand from our shippers. The continued strength of the San Francisco freight market is stiffening the views of holders in this market. An iron vessel now in port and open for re-charter is held firm for 60s U. K. and wooden vessels are also raising pretensions. The general impression appears to be that the market will not rule lower than present figures, with indications of higher rates. The British bark George Bewley, iron, 1040 tons, which arrived in yesterday, comes seeking.

TIME CONQUERED

BY

"REX MAGNUS"

The Humiston Food Preservative.

IT PRESERVES MEATS, FISH, OYSTERS, MILK, Cream, Eggs and other food products in all their freshness, purity and sweetness in all seasons and climates.

A Trial Will Prove It.

This preparation is not to be classed with the many failures which have preceded it. Scientific men like Prof. Samuel W. Johnson, of Yale College, and others, have tested it thoroughly and give it their most hearty endorsement. At a slight expense you can satisfy yourself by actual trial that it will do all that is claimed for it.

How to Get It.

You do not have to buy a county right, nor a costly recipe. We sell nothing but the goods. All druggists and grocers keep it, or we will send you a sample postpaid (by mail or express, as we prefer) on receipt of price. Name your express office.

It is Safe, Pure, Tasteless, Harmless.

Rex Magnus is composed of simple and harmless antiseptics, and the directions for its use are so plain that a child can follow them. It does not in the slightest degree affect the taste or appearance of the food, and it contains no injurious substances.

Within the Reach of All.

But a small quantity of the preservative is required for each pound of food. Meats, fish, butter, etc., can be saved at a cost not exceeding a cent a pound. "Viandine" for meats, poultry, etc., 50 cts. per lb.; "Ocean Wave," for oysters, lobsters, etc. 50c. "Pearl," for cream, $1. "Snow Flake," for milk, butter, etc., 50c. "Queen," for eggs, $1. "Aqua-Vitae," for fluid extracts, etc., $1. "Anti-Ferment," "Anti-Fly" and "Anti-Mold," 50 cents per lb. each. Put up in 1-lb., and 5-lb. cans and in 25-lb boxes. Mention this paper.

A WORD TO THE WISE.

DON'T BE SKEPTICAL. REASON TEACHES AND EXPERIENCE CONFIRMS THAT TARRANT'S SELTZER APERIENT IS AN INVALUABLE REMEDY FOR ANY AND ALL DISORDERS OF THE STOMACH, LIVER AND BOWELS. A TEASPOONFUL IN A GLASS OF WATER EVERY MORNING, BEFORE EATING, IS NOT ONLY EXTREMELY BENEFICIAL, BUT A PROTECTION AGAINST DISEASE WHICH NO ONE CAN AFFORD TO DISREGARD. FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS.

TUTT'S PILLS

TORPID BOWELS, DISORDERED LIVER and MALARIA.

From these sources arise three-fourths of the diseases of the human race. These symptoms indicate their existence: Loss of Appetite, Bowels costive, Sick Headache, fullness after eating, aversion to exertion of body or mind, Eructation of food, Irritability of temper, Low spirits, A feeling of having neglected some duty, Dizziness, Fluttering at the Heart, Dots before the eyes, highly colored Urine, CONSTIPATION, and demand the use of a remedy that acts directly on the Liver. As a Liver medicine TUTT'S PILLS have no equal. Their action on the Kidneys and Skin is also prompt; removing all impurities through these three "scavengers of the system," producing appetite, sound digestion, regular stools, a clear skin and a vigorous body. TUTT'S PILLS cause no nausea or griping nor interfere with daily work and are a perfect

Swift's Specific.

I have known and watched the use of Swift's Specific for over 50 years, and have never known or heard of a failure to cure Blood Poison when properly taken. I used it on my servants from 1850 to 1865, as did also a number of my neighbors, and in every case that came within my knowledge it effected a cure. In all my life I have never known a remedy that would so fully accomplish what it is recommended to do.

H. L. DENNARD, Perry, Ga.

I have known and used Swift's Specific for more than twenty years, and have seen more wonderful results from its use than from any remedy in or out of the pharmacopœia. It is a certain and safe antidote to all sorts of Blood Poison.

J. DICKSON SMITH, M. D., Atlanta, Ga.

The Great Drug House of Chicago.

We do not hesitate to say that for a year past we have sold more of Swift's Specific (S.S.S.) than all other Blood Purifiers combined, and with most astonishing results. One gentleman who used half a dozen bottles says that it has done him more good than treatment that cost him $1000. Another who has used it for a scrofulous affection reports a permanent cure from its use.

VAN SHAACK, STEVENSON & CO.

$1,000 REWARD!

Will be paid to any chemist who will find, on analysis of one hundred bottles S. S. S. one particle of Mercury, Iodide Potassium, or any mineral substance.

VITAL QUESTIONS.

Ask the most eminent physician

Of any school, what is the best thing in the world for quieting and allaying all irritation of the nerves and curing all forms of nervous complaints, giving natural, childlike, refreshing sleep always?

And they will tell you, unhesitatingly

"Some form of Hops!"

CHAPTER I.

Ask any or all of the most eminent physicians:

"What is the best and only remedy that can be relied on to cure all diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs, such as Bright's disease, diabetes, retention or inability to retain urine, and all the diseases and ailments peculiar to Women"—

And they will tell you explicitly and emphatically "Buchu."

Ask the same physicians

"What is the most reliable and surest cure for all liver diseases or dyspepsia; constipation, indigestion, biliousness, malaria, fever, ague, etc.," and they will tell you:

"Mandrake! or Dandelion!"

Hence, when these remedies are combined with others equally valuable

DR. CHEEVER'S ELECTRIC BELT, or Regenerator, is made expressly for the cure of derangement of the generative organs. Whenever any debility of the generative organs occurs, from whatever cause, the continuous stream of ELECTRICITY permeating through the parts must restore them to healthy action. There is no mistake about this instrument. Years of use have tested it, and thousands of cures are testified to. Weakness from Indiscretion, Excesses, Loss of Vigor, Sterility—in fact, any troubles of these organs is cured. Do not confound this with electric belts advertised to cure all ills from head to toe. This is for the ONE specific purpose. For circulars giving full information address CHEEVER ELECTRIC BELT CO., 103 Washington St., Chicago, Ill.
